Mr. K to Present World Arms Plan At UN Assembly

'Ashes, Graves' Without Peace

(From Times News Services)

WASHINGTON—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, warning that a third world war would be "sheer madness," announced today that he is ready to present new Russian proposals for worldwide disarmament.

He said he will submit the Soviet plan to the United Nations in New York Friday. He gave no advance details, but indicated the proposals will be sweeping.

"The best, the most reliable way to make war impossible would be to place all states, without exception, in conditions where they would have no means of conducting war," he said in a nationally televised speech before the National Press Club.

Khrushchev warned that modern atomic weapons, missiles and space vehicles have made the U.S.-Soviet arms race extremely dangerous to both countries and to all mankind. Unless America and Russia find a way to put their swiftly-advancing technologies in the service of peace, he said, "the earth will be covered with ashes and graves."

Khrushchev's address before an overflow luncheon audience of 480 at the National Press Club was his first full-scale speech since arriving in this country Tuesday. It was followed by a no-holds-barred question and answer session.

"The Soviet people have long made their choice for peace," he said.

"We are convinced that the American people also are for peace," he said.

A LIBERAL WIN in the next provincial election is their cup of tea, but national Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson, right, told provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault he probably won't come to B.C. to help him personally. "The federal party will help materially," however, he added. Mr. Perrault said the provincial party will run a candidate in every riding. The pair posed at Empress during short visit.

100 Buried In Collapse Of Building

BARLETTA, Italy (AP)—A five-story apartment building collapsed with lightning speed in this port city today, trapping an estimated 100 persons.

The number of dead was not known.

Tonight, as thousands of workers prepared to dig throughout the night, police said the number of crushed bodies removed from the debris totaled 18.

Another 15 persons were carried to hospital, some in grave condition.

Police said that probably another 88 persons were still in the rubble of cement, bricks, stone and twisted steel that until early this morning was home to some 24 families.

HOPE TO SAVE SOME

Thousands of infantry troops, police, firemen, Red Cross workers and volunteers prepared to work throughout the night in hopes that some of those trapped in the debris might be saved. Five bulldozers also were being used in the grim task.

Meanwhile, another 2,000 policemen and other officials of this city of 50,000 people 30 miles north of the big city of Bari formed cordons to hold back relatives of the victims. Many women wept. Others prayed.

The tragedy struck swiftly. The building custodian's wife, among the first to be removed and taken to hospital, said "it sounded like a bomb."

Others near the scene at the time said at first they thought an earthquake had struck the city.

RUSH OUT IN PANIC

Still others, feeling the shock and hearing the rumble, thought that a tanker had exploded in the port. Thousands rushed out of their homes in panic.

The building originally was a one-story garage. Four other stories had been erected upon it and only recently families had moved into the apartments.

Technicians expressed the belief that the collapse resulted because the building foundations could not sustain the weight of the new floors.

Animal-Laden Rocket Explodes on Takeoff

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—A Jupiter missile carrying 14 pregnant mice and two frogs exploded today 10 seconds after launching.

The shot was to have been a test of the effects of space flight on the tiny animals and several other biological samples packed in the nose cone.

The would-be space travelers met a fiery death when the Jupiter blew apart about 1,000 feet in the air.

Pieces of the vehicle fell back on the launching area.

No person in the area was hurt.

The 60-foot rocket rose from its pad at 7:45 a.m. EDT. It veered sharply off course almost immediately. Suddenly it erupted in a huge ball of fire and smoke as it was ripped by tons of exploding fuel.

The defence department announced later that the range safety officer deliberately destroyed the big missile when his instruments detected a malfunction. He pressed a button that ignited an explosive package built into the missile for that purpose.

The Jupiter was to have carried its flying menagerie some 300 miles into space and 1,500 miles down the Atlantic missile range. Ships and planes waited near the West Indies island of Antigua hoping to recover the nose cone and its cargo.

The mice and frogs were packed into the huge cone with one of the strangest groups of living things ever assembled. Also aboard were onions and mustard seeds, fruit fly larvae, bread mould, human blood and skin, algae cells, sea urchin eggs and radiation emulsion packs.

SPACE FLIGHT DATA

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the test of space flight on various biological systems would help prepare the way for manned space journeys.

The cone contained more than a day's supply of oxygen, food and water for the tiny space travellers.

There were no instruments attached to the animals to send back information on their condition during flight.

Last May, the United States sent two female monkeys named Able and Baker aloft in another Jupiter and recovered them successfully.

During July, the Russians safely parachuted two animal loads, totalling four dogs and a rabbit back from undisclosed altitudes.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, we beseech Thee to draw near to all those who are downcast and dispirited. There are many who are lonely and discouraged, and know not which way to go. Make Thyself known to them that they may feel that they are not alone. Give them light that they may see their way ahead. Give them that peace that comes from resting in Thee. May they accept the invitation of Him who said, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest"; in His blessed name. Amen.

India's position in favor of seating the Peking regime, he said, remains unchanged.

T. F. Tsiang, Chinese Nationalist delegate, denounced India's proposal as an unfriendly act.

"It is at this moment more appropriate," he said, "for the General Assembly to investigate the acts of genocide in Tibet rather than consider the question of China's representation in the United Nations."

No Change in Berlin Policy

The speech disclosed no change in the Soviet attitude on Germany or Berlin.

He called again for recognition of two separate Germanies—West Germany and the Communist puppet regime in the east.

And he argued again for the Soviet proposal, already rejected by the Allies, to make West Berlin—at present under Allied occupation—a defenceless "free city" encircled by Communist East Germany.

Khrushchev gave no details of his new disarmament proposal, but he said he hopes it will "play an important part in the solution of this, the most burning issue of our time."

Khrushchev's speech was regarded by reporters who have covered him for years in Moscow and Europe as one of the most conciliatory in tone that he has ever made.

He acknowledged it would be "naïve" for either side to expect all differences to be ironed out overnight.

"Too much misunderstanding and prejudice born of the cold war have accumulated for this," Khrushchev said. "But the Soviet government believes that if we all work hard together, the storm clouds in the relations between our countries can well be dispersed."

'The Barometer Seems Fine'

Khrushchev spoke of a "feeling of friendship" for the United States.

Referring to President Eisenhower, who will return Khrushchev's visit later this fall, he said Eisenhower's "outstanding qualities are highly esteemed in the Soviet Union."

Khrushchev said it would be premature to try to predict the results of his visit here, remarking that even the weather man has difficulty forecasting a day in advance.

But, he added, judging by his one day here which included a two-hour conversation with Eisenhower, the "barometer seems fine."

The visiting Soviet leader launched into weightier matters after opening his address with a bit of pleasantries.

He said he would like to remain here half a year so he could answer all questions put to him.

But, he said, "I have to return to Moscow to receive your esteemed president in our own country."

"Despite the strong propaganda against the Soviet Union and the Communist party and me as its leader, the American public is giving me a good, warm reception," the Soviet Premier said in reply to a question as to what had impressed him most here.

"This shows the public realizes the need for friendship with the Soviet Union."

"One might not respect our political views, but since we are living on one planet we must try to live together."

"We are not the kind of people we have been pictured. We don't gobble up babies. After all, we eat the same food you do—a little meat, a little potatoes."

Mr. Khrushchev, standing calmly in the midst of reporters, answered questions quickly and with apparent ease.

One questioner recalled that Vice-President Nixon has said that Khrushchev suffered from some misconceptions about the United States.

In view of that, the Russian leader was asked if he has yet changed any of his opinions about America.

"No," he replied. "Mr. Nixon often has a wrong conception of our people and of myself. He has imagined, he has in his mind, an image of Soviet political leaders which is not true."

Asked if he had any preconception of the U.S., Khrushchev said:

"I had some picture. What kind of a chairman of the Council of Ministers would I be if I had no conception of the United States?"

Has he been surprised by anything he has seen in the United States so far?

"I can't say that I have been surprised by anything."

New Deal for Algiers

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle said tonight that as soon as peace is restored in Algeria, Algerians will be able to use their vote "still more freely and still more widely."

PEARSON URGES TALKS

'Pool Efforts In Space Race'

By PETE LOUDON

The cause of peace will be well served if President Eisenhower can talk Soviet Premier Khrushchev into pooling scientific activities in outer space, veteran Canadian statesman Lester Pearson said here today.

National Liberal party leader, Nobel Peace Prize winner and former Secretary of State for External Affairs, Mr. Pearson was interviewed at the Empress Hotel. He is visiting here on party matters with provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault for the day.

He said the current visit of the Soviet Premier in the U.S. should be helpful, but "we'd better keep our fingers crossed."

Mr. Pearson hopes the Soviet leader will be impressed with the industrial might of the U.S. but to understand it is a defensive might and a U.S. not an aggressive power.

He said he met Khrushchev once five years ago near Yalta while visiting the Soviet Union.

"He is tough, intelligent, flexible, he will listen as well as talk."

"He is a dedicated Communist, and convinced they have the way of the future. He is obviously a man of great capacities."

"He is jovial and a wonderful host, an extrovert, he loves parties."

Mr. Pearson added at some of them Premier Khrushchev is "a bit of a buffoon."

He considered a moment before adding that he believed Khrushchev "has as much power as Stalin had."

'TIGHTEST MONEY EVER BUT WE'VE NO POLICY'

By HAL MALONE

Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson today clashed sharply with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming on whether or not Canada has a tight-money policy.

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fleming have repeatedly stated Canada has no tight-money policy.

Mr. Pearson told a press conference in the Empress Hotel: "We have the tightest money in history but we have no policy."

He said the sale of treasury bills "show that conclusively."

"It's a bad situation," said Mr. Pearson, "that interest rates are higher than ever before when Canada is emerging from a recession—and we are—let alone to have this situation during a boom in our economy."

Government confusion on the matter is compounded, said Mr. Pearson, when "Mr. Diefenbaker says we don't have tight money; then says that if we do have tight money it isn't his government's fault."

And finally says the government isn't to blame for taking any measures through the Bank of Canada which, he says, it doesn't control.

"Everyone knows that the Bank of Canada is responsible to the ministers of finance."

"Purely, it's a case where the government won't take responsibility."

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(From Times News Services)

SAN FRANCISCO—Two would-be beatnik bandits were beat from the start Tuesday. They just couldn't communicate.

"Man, I mean this is it," lisped one of the tough guys. "This is a stickup."

Albert Heineman, 43, bartender at the Hungry Inn, busy polishing glasses, only half-heard him.

He turned to waiter Clarence Quinn and said "I think these guys are pulling a heist."

Quinn didn't hear too well, either. He thought Heineman said they were trying to pull a knife.

Quinn walked over to the pair, shook them both up, then tossed both out into the street.

"Man, like, I mean you don't get the picture," was the last word heard.

HALIFAX—Mrs. Katie Snow, 101 today, wonders what people will do when she reaches "200 or more."

She said she couldn't understand all the fuss "just because I'm 101 years old." However, as she prepared to celebrate the day with her son at his home here, she admitted being a bit excited about the next birthday party she'll attend.

That will be Sept. 24 when her brother, John Vogler of nearby New West Quoddy, is 103.

TORONTO—Meryl Anderson of Vancouver arrived here Tuesday on a bicycle she hopes will take her on a trip across most of Eastern Europe.

The 24-year-old office worker bought the bicycle four months ago. She hopped on it July 6 and cycled to Toronto to join her friend Catherine Reid, also 24.

Meryl and Catherine intend to cycle from Toronto to Montreal and then to New York where they will sail for England. In Europe they hope to pedal as far east as Greece and Turkey.

MOSCOW—The official Soviet news agency Tass announced Tuesday night that the Order of the Red Banner has been awarded to Prima Ballerina Galina Ulanova of the Bolshoi Theatre Company.

"Ulanova is rightly considered the founder of a new school in the art of ballet, which demands from the performer an organic blending of technical mastery and, above all, a profound dramatic ability," Tass said.

LOS ANGELES—Film star Rock Hudson was awarded a final divorce decree Tuesday from his wife, Phyllis Gates.

Hudson and Miss Gates, both 33, were married Nov. 9, 1955. She was awarded an interlocutory decree in August, 1958, but Hudson picked up the final decree officially ending the marriage.

Peking Asks India to Drop Tibet Issue

PEKING (Reuters)—Red China today for the first time publicly asked India to stop "anti-Chinese activities" involving the Dalai Lama, exiled ruler of Tibet.

The Communist party newspaper People's Daily, referring to a proposal by India's Prime Minister Nehru to settle the Chinese-Indian border dispute by peaceful negotiations, says the Chinese would like to see the Indian authorities live up to their words.

"We are even more justified in demanding that India put an end at once to the anti-China campaign, including anti-Chinese activities by some people using the Dalai Lama and the Tibetan rebels in India, withdraw promptly from all places within Chinese territory which it has invaded and occupied, and begin friendly negotiations with China for a peaceful settlement of the boundary question."

"Following the recent heated round of argument, there is reason to expect an easing of the tension that has existed in Sino-Indian relations."

"Our farmers are free, efficient, creative and hard-working," Benson told him. "I like to call them 'the salt of the earth'—truly good people."

To a band of reporters clustered in the auditorium at the research centre Khrushchev called out a cheery "good morning." He beamed at getting off at least a couple of words of English.

After the tour Benson said Khrushchev remarked that the Russians "have much to learn from our agriculture."

Khrushchev had a merry time at the farm. He chuckled frequently and patted one of the pigs on the rump.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Edward Czarzynski, 60, was killed by electric shock Tuesday when he came in contact with a light cord while standing in water in the cellar of his home.

The first attack by a submarine on an enemy warship was made by a one-man undersea craft during the American revolution.

VICTORIA NAVAL OFFICER
Cmdr. Maurice F. Oliver has been named commanding officer designate of the Pacific Command depot ship Cape Breton, which is now fitting out at HMC Dockyard. Cmdr. Oliver's appointment was effective Sept. 1. He was formerly training commander of HMCS Naden, and at one time served as commanding officer of HMCS Iroquois.

Jolly Farmer Bubbles

BELTSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Bouncy and jovial, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told Americans today they and the Russians would be better off if they concentrated on peaceful pursuits—such as raising fine turkeys.

"If we don't give a capitalist turkey and a Communist turkey a passport, no one can tell the difference," he said during a tour of the U.S. department of agriculture's huge experimental farm at Beltsville.

Khrushchev, nattily attired and apparently none the worse for wear after the long first day of his trip, showed his usual ebullience at the experimental farm. His comment on turkeys came as he looked over an exhibit of prize white turkeys.

UNEQUALLED DEGREE
The Communist leader was told at Beltsville by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson that capitalism helped the American farmer develop food production to a degree unequalled anywhere in the world.

"Our farmers are free, efficient, creative and hard-working," Benson told him. "I like to call them 'the salt of the earth'—truly good people."

To a band of reporters clustered in the auditorium at the research centre Khrushchev called out a cheery "good morning." He beamed at getting off at least a couple of words of English.

Mr. K's Visit Starts Slow Cold War Thaw

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower appear to be slowly melting some of the cold war ice between them.

A major break-through could come nine days hence when they journey to the president's Camp David retreat 80 miles north of here in efforts to reach firm understanding on crucial world issues.

In the meantime, in Tuesday's White House conference lasting almost two hours, they agreed on a rough agenda for the Camp David conference and left details to be worked out by their foreign ministers.

Foreign Minister Gromyko and State Secretary Herter were to exchange views today on matters relating to the Camp David talks. It was made clear they would cover major issues splitting East and West.

The Camp David weekend meeting — Friday, Sept. 25 to Sunday, Sept. 27 — would cap Khrushchev's historic 13-day tour of the U.S. It may be a tough and gruelling journey for the 65-year-old Soviet leader, but he showed Tuesday that he has plenty of stamina.

After a 12-hour air journey from Moscow, the tedious procedures of airport welcoming ceremonies, a 15-mile open-car parade ride and the two-hour White House conference, Khrushchev readily agreed to an impromptu trip aboard Eisenhower's helicopter before attending a three-hour state dinner.

His wife, Nina, and his two daughters spent the afternoon quietly at Blair House, the presidential guest house across the street from Eisenhower's own mansion. Khrushchev's son, Sergei, showed some of his father's zest and toured some of the Washington sights before dinner.

Disdainful of Pomp and Ceremony

The premier got a full red carpet treatment, though his host, Eisenhower, appeared somewhat strained and sombre in his greeting. In contrast, Khrushchev appeared relaxed and a bit disdainful of the pomp and ceremony.

A noon crowd estimated at between 100,000 and 200,000 lined well-guarded streets during the Khrushchev welcoming parade. The Soviet leader waved his black homburg hat repeatedly, but though some cheered, most spectators were silent.

Khrushchev didn't appear concerned. He was reported in jovial mood at the White House dinner Tuesday night.

Terrific Welcome Red Press Claims

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow newspapers told readers today that Washington's welcome to Nikita Khrushchev was the greatest in the history of the American capital.

Stories appearing in Pravda and Izvestia said "the Soviet premier was greeted by 'friendly shouts' and 'stormy applause' from a smiling crowd so big 'there was not even a place to drop an apple' on the street."

"Not even the end of the Second World War brought such a sea of people onto the streets of Washington," said the Communist party organ.

Pravda said "About 300,000 Americans met the Soviet guests, people stood on rooftops and balconies and many climbed monuments or trees."

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, edited by Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexi I. Adzhubel, 33, who is traveling with him, gave an even more enthusiastic account.

"Everywhere there were smiles and raised arms. There were outbursts of applause. The streets of Washington from the most distant outskirts were packed with people."

"Washington had never before seen anything like this."

Izvestia said there was only one cloud in a clear sky—

Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The government organ said Nixon "tried to combine his not very impressive excursions into the field of science with bad-smelling policy when he permitted himself to attack the Soviet Union."

Izvestia apparently referred to the comment by the vice-president on Sunday when talking to reporters about the Soviet moon rocket.

A press aide with Nixon said there was no official proof yet that the rocket had actually hit the moon. Nixon said: "Yes, that's true. None of us really knows that it is in the moon."

SOCKEYE IN OKANAGAN

OLIVER — More than 2,000 sockeye salmon, looking for a place to spawn, have worked their way up to the Okanagan River, the federal fisheries department reported.

Anti-K Protesters Hushed

By The Canadian Press
Quiet displays of protests marked the arrival in the United States Tuesday of Soviet Premier Khrushchev. He was aware of few if any of them.

There were no openly provocative or insulting demonstrations but a few spectators ran about the law in Washington, the premier's first call in his precedent-setting U.S. visit. The son of former army secretary Robert T. Stevens, Robert Stevens, 32, and his wife, Hope, were hustled away from the arrival route. They had tried to display skull and crossbones flags on the route. They were not arrested.

Another flag-carrier did not fare as well as Stevens. Police arrested Marvin H. Merry, 28, when he appeared along the Khrushchev route carrying a skull and crossbones flag.

He was charged with violating a local ordinance that prohibits the display in a public place of signs or banners other than those of legitimate political, religious or labor organizations. Merry posted $25 collateral and was released pending a court hearing Friday.

The incidents prompted three Senators and two members of the House of Representatives to join in a statement of protest against what they called "suppression of the right of free expression."

They said a Washington woman who wished her name withheld because her husband is a government employee was brutally struck across the chest by police while she and seven other women were displaying black flags and balloons.

Squad of Six-Footers Will Protect Nikita

NEW YORK (UPI) — Soviet Prime Minister Nikita S. Khrushchev will be protected by 3,300 men, including a personal bodyguard of 16 six-footers, during his 45-hour visit here starting Thursday.

Not since Queen Elizabeth visited New York in 1957 has the New York police department made such elaborate preparations for a visitor. Elizabeth had a guard of 3,573 men, but her tour of the city was much more extensive than Khrushchev's will be.

"Only Hitler could have made it worse for us," one high police official said.

One thing worrying police officials is that they don't know what the Russian prime minister will be doing during the free time on his schedule. Soviet authorities have given no hint of what Khrushchev might like to see during the sightseeing time he has between scheduled lunches, dinners and receptions.

Another headache is the probability of mass picketing by various anti-Communist and refugee organizations. Police will be strict in limiting picketing to only five locations where Khrushchev will appear, and placards on sticks or poles will not be permitted.

LIKE ANY HOUSEWIFE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A crisp breeze at Andrews air force base kept blowing debris onto the 125-foot red carpet set out for Nikita S. Khrushchev Tuesday.

Pte. Gus Bagetelos swept the carpet clean at last three times before the Soviet leader's delayed arrival.

Like any housewife, he found it easier at one point to sweep some lint and a cigarette butt under the carpet.

Into Space and the Future

ONCE MORE SOVIET SCIENTISTS have pioneered a new phase of the space age. Granted that their missile landed on the moon — and Western experts are convinced by the available evidence that it did — the Russians should be given full credit for their achievement. Science, like art, transcends international and ideological borders and there should be no attempt to belittle a feat which the West would be only too happy to claim as its own.

At the same time, the lunar rocket cannot be regarded as an isolated incident. Both Russians and Americans have launched similar rockets within the past few months. Last week's effort denotes a greater skill in timing and aiming, rather than the application of a new principle. Considering the hazards involved, the bulls-eye shot is a miracle of scientific ability.

Further successful launchings inevitably will follow. These, like the pioneer flight, will take their place in the global pattern of space exploration. American experiments in sending a man into space and successfully returning him are progressing and may soon see fruition. British studies in tracking and instrumentation continue. Many less publicized undertakings are being pursued in the laboratory and the field. From the scientists' standpoint these are all parts of the whole — segments of a world-wide co-operative effort to master our environment.

Because of ideological differences between East and West that co-operation is not complete. Each side is reluctant to reveal very much of its findings to the other. But this competitive attitude can itself be one of the greatest incentives to progress, and even though much of it is military in origin it can result eventually in benefit to mankind.

There may be many who view with foreboding these increasingly ambitious probes into space. But it is too late to try to turn our backs on such endeavor; we are committed to the new age and all that it implies, just as much as an earlier generation was involved by the discovery of the New World. There can be no return.

What we do with the new and vastly enlarged environment upon which we are entering is a different matter. We can use space as an expanded stage for the quarrels and contention which now fill the earth. Or we can see the challenge of space as an added reason for mankind to unite for its own good, as a penetration into an area so unimaginably vast that it reduces our terrestrial squabbles to insignificance in the great scheme of the universe.

Man could yet find in space what he has so far failed to find on his limited earthly sphere. People now living will not likely see that day; but they may see the first faint glimmering of a light in the heavens, of which the lunar rocket landing could have struck the first primitive spark.

College Needs Action

MR. BONNER'S OPINION that the time has come to consider diversification of the University of British Columbia and that "Victoria is the most logical point to begin diversification in earnest" is not a new concept.

He thinks that the institution at Point Grey is growing too big and that students would benefit from a move to provide university facilities in other parts of the province — particularly in the capital. This, of course, is the development which is taking place at Victoria College.

But if the attorney-general's viewpoint is not new, his support of this evolution, along with his announcement that the government attention to the matter, is highly encouraging.

Two proposals are now under study by the Victoria College Council's special committee on expansion. One calls for approximately $3,300,000 additions to the present site. The other, pressed by a Chamber of Commerce committee, seeks relocation of the College as a university at Gordon Head and would cost something over $6,000,000.

"Respectful and careful consideration" of the issue by the government seems to imply the imminence of a decision on how much the administration will provide for either of these two plans.

The College authorities see the possibility of raising $1,500,000 by public subscription, to be met by a matching grant from the Government and supplemented by $300,000 from the Canada Council. Should the government, after respectful and careful consideration, decide to provide greater assistance, the Victoria College Council will not be disappointed.

But while these statements and studies continue, time is pressing. To do the job it must do for the increasing number of students coming to College, new facilities are needed now. A decision at the earliest moment is essential.

It is cheering to hear Mr. Bonner say that "Victoria is the most logical point to begin diversification in earnest."

More encouraging still would be an announcement by the government of the funds it will make available. Such a statement could come suitably when a joint College Council-Chamber of Commerce committee seeks a meeting with the cabinet next week.

Swelling Chorus for Camping Song

THIS YEAR 2,300,000 VISITS were recorded in provincial parks, 20 per cent more than in 1958. Of that total all but 25 per cent were residents of the province.

In other words British Columbians know a good thing and are taking advantage of it. So they should. They pay for the parks. The department of recreation and conservation, carrying on where the forestry department left off, is creating admirable sites for camping and picnicking and the public is showing in the clearest way possible its appreciation for the amenities that are provided.

The demand continues. Facilities at Goldstream, one of the most recent of the developed areas, were taxed to the limit during the summer season. Because of the popularity of lower Island camping areas—a popularity by no means restricted to this part of the province—it is good news to learn of more units due for completion before the next camping season comes.

A 50-unit area in Bamberton Park at Sandy Beach and a 100-unit camp and picnic area near the Island Highway bridge on the Chemainus River will provide additional accommodation next year. On the basis of experience at other parks, these sites will be filled quickly.

Further work up-Island, including completion of the Smith's Landing Park project on Sproat Lake, and other improvements for projected sites elsewhere, particularly along the new Tofino road, will help to meet the healthy trend toward outdoor recreation.

The department is to be congratulated on its successful efforts to introduce new friends to the scenic areas of our province and to the enjoyments of vacations under canvas.

Most of the campers are British Columbians, but they are joined by a growing number of outside visitors. They, like our own residents, have been warm in their praise of the selection, construction and general excellence of a growing parks system.

A Regrettable Loss

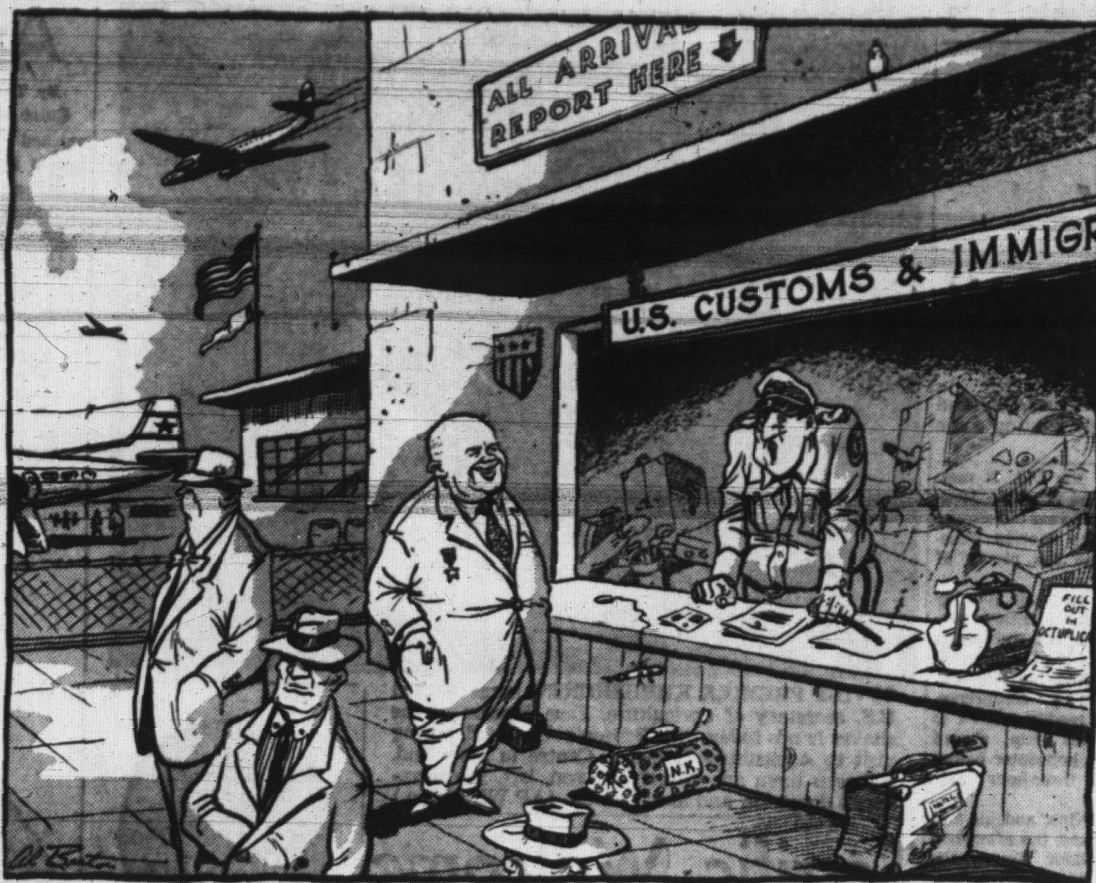

THE RESIGNATION OF MR. Alan Jarvis from his post as director of the National Gallery of Canada has been a matter of consternation in art circles across the country. Mr. Jarvis is tops in his field and his loss to the administration of Canada's national collection is a serious one.

The Gallery's director since 1955 is a man who thrives on controversy, and controversy remains the lifeblood of artistic endeavor in any country. Mr. Jarvis has been reticent about his reasons for resigning—his contract was for five years—but the recent incident of the cancelled purchase order is still fresh in mind, and in other ways the director may have incurred the displeasure of Government powers in Ottawa.

The National Gallery had ordered the purchase of some paintings which the Cabinet approved in the belief that the money had been appropriated by the previous Government. On learning otherwise, the purchase was cancelled. This was a direct affront to the Gallery's director; it also placed Canada in the unenviable position in international art circles of having reneged on a business deal.

Regardless of who succeeds Mr. Jarvis, the Gallery has lost an excellent administrator and a first-rank expert. It is to be hoped that he will continue to work in Canada so that the loss will not be compounded.

REARS ITS UGLY HEAD

Trouble With Their Men and Women

By B. A. TOBIN

THE word from Madison Avenue, domain of the hucksters, is that the public is getting a little fussy about sex. Not a revolt against sex, of course, but against the use of it in advertising. And not so much against its actual use, as against the type of sex and the ideal male and female figures the advertising men have created. That's a fairly complicated situation, as you can see. In fact, sex is quite a problem to advertising men. Maybe they're human, after all.

The use of sex to make you want to buy things ranges from the blatant to the subtle, and in many ways the subtle becomes more blatant all the time.

And, as in any field where sex is a factor, it can often get out of hand.

The cigarette industry, for example, went out on a campaign some years ago to popularize smoking among women. They wanted to break down the taboo against feminine smoking in public, and many folk today will remember the advertising pictures of a hand holding a cigarette.

In Between

The hand wasn't quite feminine, but it wasn't wholly masculine either—much like the Second World War recruiting ads which showed a soldier who wasn't quite French-Canadian in appearance, but not wholly English-Canadian either.

Gradually the hand developed, until pretty soon it was wearing bracelets on its wrist. The hand that held the cigarette was obviously female now, and soon it wore an obviously feminine glove to show that the smoking was being done in public.

As smoking became increasingly popular among women that sort of advertising became unnecessary. But only a few months ago a trade publication noted a new hazard for the manufacturers. The smoking-for-women campaign, continued over the years, had been so successful that the emphasis had come down on the wrong side. Smoking was becoming an effeminate pastime and cigarette sales to the masculine world were endangered.

The news item warned readers to be on the lookout for a switch in advertising accent, with emphasis on smoking as a masculine enjoyment. No doubt we shall see it.

For He-Men

Something of the opposite nature occurred a few years ago when the tea manufacturers set out to popularize tea among men. The feminine implications of "tea party," "tea tables" and such were cast aside, and the ads showed a brawny logger's hand outstretched to take a steaming cup of tea. Madison Avenue had triumphed over sex again.

But the current problem is a little more involved. It seems that the subtle inflexions of the male and female ideals that have been built up are annoying too many advertisement readers.

Some women complain that the women shown in ads are too feminine, or that they don't conform to accepted standards of dress or behaviour, or that the products pictured are too, too feminine even for women. Men complain that the men in the ads are too masculine or not masculine enough.

When the commercial world sets out to create perfect human images it can run into more trouble than it would ever find in the creation of piston rods, refrigerators, toothbrushes or pens.

As one example, the Institute for Social Research notes that ads for tuxedo pants may lose a lot of sales because they picture women wearing them in social situations where no woman of the "middle majority" group would dream of wearing them. They become a symbol of unfashionableness, of only semi-respectability, and the ad does more harm than good.

In the same way, it is said, some cosmetics and suntan are portrayed in a way that may repel many women. I wonder if Madison Avenue is inhibited entirely by men?

The upshot of it is that the Institute offers some guidance for the commercial creators of human beings. Like the ideal political candidate, these figures must be pleasing to all kinds and classes of consumer.

The ads should show the male as "dominant and assertive," but courteous even though he may be allowed to act impulsively under stress of anger or desire.

Woman's Role

The woman should be portrayed as "submissive, but able to gain her objectives through indirectness." She should be able to control the man's impulsiveness and prevent him being carried away by his desires and beliefs.

These are the models which will be put up for our approval—the models, perhaps, on which we will be expected to pattern ourselves.

But I can see another problem looming for the Madison Avenue crowd. For having come to resemble the ideals they portray, maybe we then won't like the new kind of advertising they put out.

Troubles. Troubles. What made Sammy run could also make Sammy cry.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

'Perish the Pill-Box'

The recent question of the policemen's headwear having been discussed can now be considered settled. It's a case of "To helmet der helmet."

But there is another branch of the service which deserves consideration in the matter of lids, namely the cadets of the United Services College, who are forced to wear the atrocity known as the "pill-box."

Headwear should be useful, protective and ornamental. A "pill-box" is none of these, being useless to the wearer in rain, snow or cold weather nor as shade for the eyes in sunshine. It subjects the fine lads condemned to wear it by "Brass Hats," who take good care not to wear it themselves, to ridicule by being compared, especially by visitors from other countries, to bellhops; walking adverts for a tobacco firm; imitations of their great grandfathers in the Crimea War or as grown up editions of the English Church Boys' Brigade.

Canada spends many millions of dollars for defence and much of the money is admittedly wasted. Surely some money can be spent to provide the cadets with a uniform of which they can be proud and which will compare favorably with those of other services. Airplanes are not the only thing to become obsolete. Perish The Pill-Box!

SCRUTINEER

More Leadership

Of "The Ultimate Weapon," the guided missile now paramount in the armament rivalry of the United States and Soviet Russia, you say truly: "With a comparatively few of these missiles one country could render uninhabitable another country on the opposite side of the earth."

Your conclusion in the leader on this armament situation is to say that the intercontinental ballistic missile with nuclear warhead "takes up a lot of space." You add the profound comment: "In a world which contains it, there is no room for egomania, or for misunderstanding."

But there is apparently room for pussyfooting in editorial columns on Canada's current waste of billions of dollars in annual expenditure on obsolete weapons and so-called "civil defence." In no political party is there leadership of Canadian opinion, such as Lord Randolph Churchill had the courage to give in the British realm years ago, when he denounced expenditure on useless armaments as "absolutely misapplied, utterly wasted and thrown away."

At that time, too, in 1887, the entire British army and navy estimates were less than $150,000,000 annually. At present, in Canada, the annual expenditure is in thousands of millions of dollars. . . . But Canada has no Churchill, nor would any leader of opinion, such as Lord Randolph's, receive much backing in columns where there is supposed to be leadership.

Soviet Russia has a "master plan"—to use Montgomery's term. Khrushchev can afford to advocate disarmament, without fear of precipitating widespread unemployment—as disarmament would in Victoria.

There is no danger of a stock market slump in Moscow; as in New York recently—when Eisenhower invited Khrushchev to visit the U.S.A. At that first sign of melting in the Cold War, one stock market cynic commented, "Peace is raising its ugly head."

Surely the people of North America are entitled to more enlightened leadership. It could perhaps come from the emulators of Cyrus Eaton on an island in the Strait of Georgia.

Hospital Questions

Is it true that the hospitals of B.C. are being deliberately deprived of the twenty-seven million dollars which the Dominion government has paid to the provincial government some weeks ago? Is it true that all the hospitals in B.C. are, to use a slang expression, in the red?

WASHINGTON:

A Letter to Henry Luce

By JOSEPH ALSOP

DEAR Henry Luce:

Although I rather doubt its being wholly welcome, I feel impelled to write you this letter after returning from a short but fairly intensive on-the-spot look at the trouble in Laos. The idea of the letter originated in Hong Kong, on my way home, when I belatedly discovered that last but one issue of Time. The contrast was so remarkable, between your dismissal of the new Communist aggression in the Far East in a few patronizing paragraphs, and your ikon-portrait of President Eisenhower and close to six pages of paeon about his European trip. Your implied order of priorities is cheerfully accepted by a large section of public opinion; and you are both the symbol and quite largely the creator of this public opinion.

High Purposes

Having been in Samneua and Vientiane when the President was in London and Paris, I cannot judge the solid results achieved by his trip. His purposes, certainly, were as high as his purposes always are.

But after the closest, most prolonged study of your report on it, I can find no more evidence of solid political achievement than you would expect from any personal appearance tour designed to instill confidence and to spread good will.

In Laos, on the other hand, one saw a wholly new—even terrifying, new—stage of a vast political process. It is a process that used to interest you in the past.

You surely recall your loud denunciations of President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson for their failure to prevent the loss of China. What is happening now in Laos grows out of that failure and the peace President Eisenhower made in Korea, and the subsequent partition of Indochina.

But even though Laos is small and obscure, the success of the Communist aggression there will still be a new stage in this process. It will resemble the stage when a spreading cancer ceases to be operable.

Doubts Resolved

If you have any doubt about this, you only have to look at the map and the record.

As a nation, Laos may be small, obscure, disordered and primitive, but its geography is intensely significant. Like a long, potential trouble-maker's finger, it pokes south from the border of Communist China, past Communist North Vietnam on the east, into the middle of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand. All these three nations will be immediately imperilled by a Communist triumph in Laos.

Cambodia's Prince-Premier Sihanouk must now bitterly regret his recent visit to Saigon, to patch up his differences with the West's friend, President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam. By the same token, Indonesia's President Sukarno has now gone off on one of these sudden trips he always takes when he is in doubt about the way the wind is blowing.

The outlook in Indonesia has been improving lately; but a disaster in Laos will greatly strengthen the Communists there, and in Malaya, Singapore and Burma too. In short, the fate of Laos is only too likely to determine the fate of all Southeast Asia.

Strong Influence

This might not be the result, if the record did not strongly reinforce the map.

The record shows that the Eisenhower administration's influence was used to create the existing anti-Communist government in Laos. The record further shows that the Laotians warned the American government that their anti-Communist government and policy would provoke an attack from North Vietnam.

The record finally shows that the President's accredited representatives replied by telling the unfortunate Laotians they could have entire confidence in the support of the United States and the military protection of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Broken Reed

In these circumstances, failure to safeguard Laos against the new Communist aggression will leave the United States with the reputation all over Asia that the old Hebrew prophet first gave to Pharaoh—we shall be regarded as a broken reed, that pierces any hand that leans upon it.

The Communist arrogance and contempt for American power that is revealed by the new aggression in Laos has of course been predictable for some time. It is a natural result of our persistent neglect of the military power balance, which has long disquieted people like General Gavin—the people you therefore sneeringly accused of suffering from "Sputniksyndrome."

Challenge Here

By now the challenge is not just predictable. It confronts us squarely, with just as much functional menace as the challenge in Korea that President Truman first invited by disarmament, and then responded to so admirably.

Don't you think that in these circumstances the challenge deserves to be taken as seriously as a personal appearance tour, even a Presidential personal appearance tour?

And don't you think it may be time to do something drastic about the defence problem as well?

Sincerely,

Joseph Alsop.

Demise of the Veto

NEW YORK—The UN Security Council's decision to send a fact-finding group to Laos is being called an event of major—perhaps even historic—significance. The fact-finding mission is important in itself but even more important is the fact that the group was set up in spite of an attempted Soviet veto.

In a brilliant exhibition of legal swordplay, which went on until 1.10 a.m., Soviet and Western delegates debated whether the veto applied.

In the end the president of the council, Senor Orlando of Italy ruled in favor of the West. This means that the council now appears to have evolved a veto-proof method of dealing with future crises in the same way.

It also means that the Security Council, which had almost ceased to function because of the paralyzing influence of the veto, may become once again a useful and influential body.

As a matter of fact, the decision opens up entire new dimensions for Security Council activity through this veto-proof procedure.

Not only can sub-committees be formed for fact-finding purposes, important though that is, but apparently also for a wide range of other activities. Because of the legal niceties involved, the authority of such committees is limited—they can't make recommendations, for example—but the important thing is that the Security Council can no longer be paralyzed.

It seems likely that, in future, Security Council sub-committees may be appointed in the way royal commissions are sometimes used in Canada. They will be instructed to determine the facts in the sure knowledge that it will take time to do so—and Mr. Hammarskjöld, like Mackenzie King, is well aware of the healing effects of time.

But although virtually everyone at the UN was delighted at the outcome, there was a suspicion in the minds of many laymen that the legal swordplay of the Western powers had been somewhat stiletto-like. The Soviet argument in favor of the veto seemed supported by common sense, although Western representatives insisted that strict interpretation of the law favored their argument.

The debate hinged on whether the Western proposal, brought forward by the U.S., U.K. and France, and "procedural" or "substantive." Under Security Council rules a procedural item, dealing with the manner in which business will be carried out, is not subject to the veto. A substantive item, dealing with the business itself, is subject to the so-called "rule of unanimity."

Western delegates argued that this was procedural because setting up a sub-committee was simply a means of going about business and they cited a precedent. Mr. Sobolev argued tenaciously that procedural items deal with things like "arrangements to set up water glasses" at meetings.

The proposal to set up the fact-finding committee was, he said, executive decision of major importance, and under no circumstances could be called procedural.

Mr. Sobolev's argument was logical inasmuch as the matter under discussion was certainly of major importance. However, the Western argument prevailed. Action was immediately started to appoint the fact-finders within 24 hours and have them on their way to Laos within five days.

Although there are doubts as to the methods used by the Western nations, there is no doubt that the United Nations is stronger and more useful than it was 24 hours earlier.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (CP)—The government of Prince Edward Island became Progressive Conservative today after a quarter-century of unbroken Liberal domination. Premier-elect Walter R. Shaw and his cabinet were sworn in at a private ceremony at Government House, the home of Lieutenant-Governor F. Walter Hyndman, as the first Conservative government elected in Prince Edward Island since 1931.

The Conservatives captured 22 of the 30 legislative seats although they had less than a one per cent margin in the island's approximation of the popular vote.

'A Plague on Both Your Parties'

LONDON (CP)—A plague was invoked on both Britain's major parties by Liberal party leader Jo Grimond, Tuesday night, and a torrent of literature from Conservative and Labor headquarters helped him make a few points.

Grimond, whose party holds only six seats in the present Parliament, called for a large Liberal vote in the Oct. 8 general election as "a thumping and effective protest against phoney politics carried out for the benefit of party machines instead of for the people."

The Liberals, contesting more than 200 of the 630 House of Commons seats, aim at exerting a decisive influence on the next government. Their long-term ambition, Grimond said, is "to build up a radical-Liberal alternative to Conservatism in this country."

Grimond told a Liberal rally here that the party must find room for "the frustrated idealists" of the Labor party and Conservatives who, disliked their party's policy in Suez, Cyprus and Nyasaland. Its purpose was "to stop the blinding Tories and to stop the socialists who want more nationalization."

Meanwhile a Conservative booklet on agriculture has accused Labor of "compulsion and direction" in its farm policies and a Labor pamphlet produces a set of figures designed to prove that the government's old-age pension plan is "a swindle."

The Daily Express predicts a cabinet shuffle if Prime Minister Macmillan is returned to power, under which Home Secretary R. A. Butler would replace Selwyn Lloyd as foreign secretary and Labor Minister Iain Macleod would take over from Derick Heathcoat-Amory as chancellor of the exchequer.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Radio Sales Jump

LONDON—The news of the new push-button telephones in the U.S. has brought forth an interesting bit of information about phones in this country.

Reading of the American ones with 10 buttons to push in the handset instead of having to go through laborious dialing, folks here have been quick to ask: "When do we get them?"

But the Post Office says they have no plans for such advancement in this country. Their main interest is getting the phone system fully automatic for a start.

One in four British phones don't even have a dial, let alone fancy push-button gadgets, and not before 1970 are these antiquated ones expected to be converted to automatic.

Big jump in sales of radios poses the question whether the British love affair with television (especially commercial TV) is fading. No fewer than 2,000,000 radios were sold in the first three months of this year and in that first quarter of 1959 there were more car radios and portables sold than in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

But two factors seem to indicate that this boom in radios is not necessarily a loss of interest in TV.

First, of all things, traffic jams have had a big effect on radio sales. Cluttered roads, from which the British were thankfully free during and just after the war, have now reached proportions beyond anything in prewar days.

Sample: Traffic stuck solid for 40 miles trying to get through Exeter before a recent holiday weekend. So what do you do in these frequent and lengthy traffic jams? Listening to a car radio is as good an idea as any.

And the other factor is the transistor portable set. Britain, lagging behind, has only had these on the market in quantity in the last year or so. They're selling like hotcakes on novelty value and are giving rise to many dozens more of those heartily disliked characters—people who watch sports events and listen to the radio commentary at the same time.

STORM LASHES SEATTLE;
JAMS TRAFFIC, POWER

SEATTLE (AP)—A violent storm, packing a brilliant lightning display and torrential rains, hit Seattle Tuesday evening, causing major traffic jams, numerous power failures and a rash of traffic accidents.

There were no reports of deaths or injuries. Lightning made at least five strikes, all of them in the north end of the city. One strike touched off a minor fire at a roller rink.

Some streets were turned into gushing rivers as the storm unleashed a downpour of rain during the height of the going-home traffic rush.

HOME GARDEN

Clear the Decks for Fall!

A couple of days of wind and rain in early fall are a great help in getting the garden cleared of the summer flowering annuals.

Some, at least, will now be looking rather battered, and the space may quickly be prepared for immediate planting of wallflowers and forget-me-nots.

These two biennials are such favorites here on the Coast that it is taken for granted that most gardeners will be planting many or a few. Some will be buying the plants from dealers and growers, others will have raised their own from seed sown in late May or early June.

The combination of blood red wallflowers and the golden trumpet fiddlers is startling, while the primrose yellow wallflowers combine well with deep rose or mauve tulips.

STRONG CONTRASTS

Forget-me-nots and pink or mauve tulips are almost a traditional color scheme and will please almost any gardener, but don't overlook the more original ideas of strongly contrasting colors.

If the bulbs are not ready yet, put in the biennial plants as soon as possible, adding the bulbs in groups at a later date. It will simplify the bulb planting if a rough plan is made of the area, and the positions of the groups marked on, in relation to the other plants.

ADD COMPOST

The preparation of the soil should consist of pulling out the annuals by their roots and consigning them to the compost heap. Then dig over the bed, adding some well-rotted compost if available. A slight sprinkling of bonemeal will be beneficial, but do not add any other fertilizer at this time.

Raking over the bed will incorporate the materials and make it suitable for planting.

Be sure the wallflowers are firmly set, for the chief cause of poor flowers in spring can be traced to plants loosened by winter winds and the heaving action of frost.

HE KEPT MUMBLING ABOUT GOD AND 'POWER IN THE SUITCASE'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "A man walks across the street with a bomb and kills children."

William Hawes had just identified the body of his only son, William Jr., 7, one of six persons killed when a man pushed a button and blew up a suitcase of explosives Tuesday on the playground at Edgar Allen Poe elementary school.

Paul Harold Orgeron, 47, pressed the doorbell-type button minutes after enrolling his red-haired son, Dusty Paul, 7, in the school.

In addition to young Hawes, the blast killed Orgeron, Dusty, another pupil, a teacher and a custodian.

The 18 persons injured included the principal, Mrs. R. E. Doty, 64. Four children remain in critical condition. Several are in serious condition with leg amputations and internal injuries.

William Hawes and John Cecil Fitch, 3, died as they ran ahead of the class when they were released for recess. Their playful eagerness placed them in the unexpected danger zone.

Mrs. Jennie Kolter, 54, a second-grade teacher, and James Montgomery, 56, school custodian, died while aiding Mrs. Doty in trying to persuade Orgeron to leave the school grounds.

Two incoherent notes were found on the playground, but police could find no specific reason why Orgeron, a former convict, set off the explosion.

Orgeron and his son entered the school and stopped Mrs.

Doty in a hall to inquire about the enrolling. Mrs. Doty sent them to the office to talk with a clerk, Mrs. Juanita Weidner.

"He did not appear to be angry at all," Mrs. Weidner said. "But he did talk rather fast and loud. It was strange, but the little boy didn't say a word."

A few minutes later, the father and son appeared on the playground where about 100 pupils were playing. Another 800 pupils were inside.

Mrs. Patricia L. Johnston, another second-grade teacher, said Orgeron approached her, handed her the threatening notes and asked her to read them.

She said he kept mumbling something about God and "having power in a suitcase." He was carrying a small black suitcase and the little boy was carrying a little brown bag.

WANTED CHILDREN

"He kept on urging me to get the children in a circle," Miss Johnston said.

He showed her his suitcase and a button he was holding in his hand. The button "looked like a doorbell."

The teachers summoned Mrs. Doty, who arrived minutes later with Montgomery. "I told him that he had to leave the school grounds," Mrs. Doty said. "He kept telling me over and over, 'I have to get to the children.'"

"That is the last thing I know. There was a terrific explosion as I was standing near talking to him."

Hundred of parents and neighbors who rushed to the school found children all over the yard.

"Tell me it's a dream," begged one little girl.

Wylie Harris, 58, an investment banker, was standing near a window of his home when the blast blew it out.

"I looked and saw the children on the school ground," he said. "Part of them were down and others were trying to get up. I heard them screaming..."

Mrs. Orgeron said she had seen her former husband last week for the first time since April. She recalled him telling her "I have done so many things to hurt you but I'll never hurt you again because I have found God."

The man and the boy had been inseparable companions since the Orgerons were divorced July 7, 1958.

ART THIEVES BUSY IN U.S.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Police today are looking for discriminating thieves who ransacked tapestries and paintings valued at $20,000 from a New York dealer's station wagon.

Theo Geissenberger, owner of the art treasures, said the loot included three 17th-century Dutch paintings, a 19th-century Munich painting, and tapestries of the 17th and 18th centuries.

Gallery Alarm 'Cased'

TORONTO (CP) — Knowledge of the Toronto Art Gallery's burglar alarm system apparently was the key to the $640,000 theft of six of its best art masterpieces Monday night.

Gallery director Martin Baldwin said Tuesday night that "there were literally dozens of times when someone who didn't know how the system operated would have set it off."

BENNETT TELLS ACCOUNTANTS

Federal Finance Policy 'Suicidal'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal cabinet could use an experienced chartered accountant to help out with government financial policies, Premier Bennett of British Columbia suggested Tuesday.

At present, he told a luncheon meeting at the convention of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, a lack of men experienced in the business of balance sheets is bringing a fiscal mess in Ottawa.

Mr. Bennett made the suggestion in the course of urging accountants to take part in the business affairs of the country. He also was critical of the Progressive Conservative government's financial policies, terming them "suicidal."

"At least the Liberals left a little cash surplus behind when they left," the premier said. "But the Conservatives—who were going to get us out of this tight-money fix, remember—didn't waste any time. And that's all they didn't waste."

He said that in 1957 Canada had a tight-money policy "and the man who set the policies that brought that situation about... was a lawyer."

"And then, later in 1957, along came another lawyer who said he could lead us out of this mess. And when he was elected, what did he do?"

"Why he turned around and got us another lawyer as our federal minister of finance. And they sure fixed the mess."

CHALLENGING

The premier said the business of public finances is "difficult and challenging" and he suggested that "the members of this institute take a renewed interest in the business affairs of our country, both as individuals and as an organization."

"What Canada needs today, more than ever before," he said, "is the application of sound business principles to the conduct of our fiscal and financial affairs."

"Canada's internal development, its trade position, its total financial health, cannot be restored until the present suicidal methods of public finance are abandoned."

Iron-Ore Firm Debts Total $6.5 Millions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Creditors of Empire Development Company have agreed to waive interest and royalty payments subsequent to March 31, 1959, while the company attempts to pay off debts totalling more than $6,500,000.

The company operates iron-ore property on Vancouver Island. It was formed three years ago by Mannix Company, Ltd. of Calgary, a construction concern, and Quatsino Copper-Gold Mines Ltd. Mannix owns 60 per cent.

It holds contracts to ship some 1,380,000 tons of concentrate to Japan from Port McNeill on Vancouver Island. So far almost 500,000 tons have been shipped.

The arrangement with creditors was announced in Quatsino's annual report.

It said Empire has almost $6,000,000 in bonds, debentures and debts to creditors. A further $640,000 is in default for interest and royalty payments up to March 31.

It is estimated creditors will lose $1,125,000 over the next three years under the arrangement. Last year the company had an operating profit of $135,000 before interest, sales royalty and depreciation.

Glidden Purchases City Paint Firm

TORONTO (CP) — Glidden Company Ltd. has announced purchase of Douglass Paint Co. Ltd. of Vancouver and Mowat-Grant Ltd. of Victoria.

L. W. Lawson, executive vice-president and managing director of Glidden, described the purchase as part of the company's nation-wide expansion program and a first step by the company in B.C.

The acquisition becomes effective Oct. 1.

Federal Bond Issue Oversubscribed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's new $325,000,000 public issue of securities was oversubscribed when books closed Tuesday night, Finance Minister Fleming announced today.

The issue gave subscribers a choice among three types of bonds, with interest yields ranging up to 6.61 per cent, and an issue of 253-day treasury bills.

Mr. Fleming's statement, showing allotments made of the four securities indicated that public interest centred on a new three-year bond with a coupon interest rate of 5½ per cent, sold at $97.75 to yield 6.33 per cent annually. It carries a unique convertibility feature by which holders can exchange it for 5½ per cent bonds maturing in 1975.

Of the $325,000,000 issue, $200,000,000 worth of that three-year bond were sold.

The public issue, together with $225,000,000 of the new securities separately purchased by the Bank of Canada, will be used to repay $350,000,000 in three-per-cent bonds maturing next Oct. 1.

The new three-year bonds, issued at a 5½-per-cent bond, and another issue maturing in one year, both carried coupon interest of 5½ per cent. It is the first time since 1922 that the government has issued a 5½-per-cent bond.

SOMEBODY REMEMBERED POOR OL' JOKER'S HILL

TORONTO (UPI)—A horse called Joker's Hill was scratched out of the fifth race Tuesday at Old Woodbine.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

You think a rat in a trap asks how much it costs? It could be made of solid gold, but it's still a trap. The same with a race track. Aqueduct has got to be the most beautiful in the world. For losers, it'll be an open-air dungeon. But a few winners could make an iron lung feel like Miami Beach.

Rich people are only poor people with money. Winners at a race track are just losers on parole. I'll admit they done a good job. I seen Aqueduct recently. Some guy works there took me around.

It cost $33,000,000 to build. The wind could blow off a few naughts and that's still a lot of money. It's a nice business when you could get $33,000,000 back, a deuce at a time.

This joint is non-profit. Nobody makes any money out of the track. The owners must be trying to see how a horse player feels. Soon as they start in making money, they could give us players a break. If they don't look to make no money, why don't they have sales out at the track?

They could sell $2 tickets for 98 cents. Stores do things like that when they get loaded up on merchandise. I admit money don't go out of style like things stores sell. And all the goods a race track's got is money. But they could get a load of good will with bargains like a daily double ticket for a buck and a quarter once in a while.

At Aqueduct, a player could make out he's a human being. I mean, there's cafeterias and all he could grab a cup of coffee without bucking crowds that was harder to get through than the Green Bay Packers' line. When Aqueduct gets in action, a player's going to have time to think between races.

That's bad for a race track. Any time you give a player time to think, chances are you'll lose his business. But you could get six to one off of me that nine out of ten horse players ain't got what it needs to think with. Any one could tell you a man checks his brains any time he goes in a race track.

You don't figure to get shut out even when the joint's mobbed up on a Saturday. There's plenty of room to bet. But the way I been going lately, I get a break when I got shut out. Naturally, this track, beautiful as it is, was built for losers. No track in the whole world was ever built for winners. I mean, they got 428 windows where they sell tickets. They only got 318 windows where you could cash a bet. The day horse playing becomes a good business for players, they'll have more cashiers than sellers. But that's the day you could buy money with happiness.

Beads Won't Get You a Sandwich

Money, everybody keeps on saying, ain't everything. I'll keep on respecting it until you could buy a ham sandwich with something else. Maybe it was nothing with them old-time Indians. I mean the ones that got paid off with beads. They were all right as long as they were doing business with other Indians. They got in trouble when civilized people opened up stores. It's the same way around Aqueduct. The track ain't operated to make money. But they ain't giving it away, either. I mean, just because the Jockey Club hates money, don't mean you could bet beads. Even Indians got to bring cash.

They got all angles covered. They got an infirmary right there with 25 beds. But you got to be sick before they will allow you to use their kips. A sick player could get into a hospital. But a well one got to sleep in the subway if he blews the room rent. What's a race track, but a pauper factory. They're in business to bust people, ain't they? Then why don't they have a joint like a lodging house where a player could flop for a quarter? A track costs $33,000,000 could afford that.

You never seen such colors. The joint is painted all kinds. Some psychologists said colors like these make people happy when they look at them. I read it somewhere where the architects of the joint painted the place to give a guy the glads from one peek at the pastel colors. I ain't going to argue with them. Why don't they photograph the picture finishes with a color camera? Nothing makes a player sicker than looking at a photo finish if he gets hustled by an inch. That's where they need the happy colors. Photo finishes kill more horse players than heart trouble.

There's no way I could knock Aqueduct. I seen it under the nicest circumstances. There wasn't a horse on the track. But there was a lot of seagulls all over the infield. They should chase these birds away. They are strictly scavengers which will make horse players think about bookmakers if they're there opening day. It ain't smart to advertise the opposition.

Only one thing they missed at Aqueduct. They ain't got no shylocks. No horse player could operate without a shylock. Suppose a player gets busted at Aqueduct. He got to come all the way in to New York to borrow off his shy.

This way he's liable to miss the first race that night at Roosevelt Raceway. It's a real hardship which Aqueduct could fix if they'd just okay some shys to work the joint.

Besides all race tracks should be nice to shys. No race track in the world would ever handle a million a day if it wasn't for shys. Where do you think the players get money, anyway?

Ronnie Going to Find Better Things In Life

TORONTO (CP)—Ronnie Knox, a football player with a passion to become a poet and novelist, said after quitting as Toronto Argonauts' quarterback that football is a "game for animals."

The Hollywood glamor boy, who has tried to break into the movies and television as an actor, flew to California with plans of finishing a novel in Paris, Spain, Venice or Mexico.

The 24-year-old quarterback, whose contract with Argos called for $1,250 a game, turned down the offer.

Everything Trimmed In Okanagan League

VERNON (CP)—Okanagan Senior Hockey League clubs will be able to dress only 12 players for their games this year.

The league, in cutting the maximum from the 15 players allowed last year, also set a minimum limit of 10 players.

League play starts Oct. 16, with the season reduced to 48 from 54 games because of late playoffs.

LIVING IT UP—EQUINE STYLE

Many-featured new $33,000,000 Aqueduct race track at New York offers comfort galore for fans and track personnel as well as for horses. One new feature is saddling paddock right in front of stands.

Horses, shown moving out for post parade to track, come up from beneath stands at left to be saddled in stalls. Track opened Monday. (See Cannon's column).

COUGAR SHAREHOLDERS MEET TONIGHT

'To Sell or Not to Sell... That Is the Big Question

Tonight's the night 540 shareholders of the Victoria Cougar Hockey Club (1957) will decide whether or not to sell the team. The decision, however, is entirely up to the shareholders. While there seems to be some doubt concerning the Cougar ownership, Vancouver Island hockey fans apparently aren't worried about the team's future.

(From CP Reports) These things happened in the world of hockey Tuesday:

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League purchased Val Fonteyne from Seattle Totems of the Western League.

Red Wings' general manager Jack Adams said it was a straight cash deal. Fonteyne, 25-year-old left wing, played with Seattle the last four seasons, scoring 108 goals, including 32 last year.

HARD TO GET

The 175-pound, 27-year-old forward had his best season three years ago when he scored 31 goals for Boston Bruins. He scored only once in 30 games last year.

Meanwhile, Bruins coach Milt Schmidt summed up his squad for the first time in training by saying the only certainty on his team is the "Uke line"—Bronco Horvath, Vic Stasiuk and Johnny Bucyk.

Hockey talk started flowing around the Western League as both Winnipeg Warriors and Vancouver Canucks got down to serious training.

PISTOL HOLDING OUT

Most of news around the Vancouver camp concerned a player who wasn't there—Vic

WALL'S SUMMER SLUMP KEEPS ISSUE IN DOUBT

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Only a summer-time lag by Art Wall keeps the 35-year-old Pocono Manor, Pa., shot-maker from being a shoo-in for selection as professional golfer of 1959.

Wall remains the favorite, but two Californians, Bob Rosburg and Bill Casper, figure to provide some competition for the honor.

Work on selection of the pro golfer of the year got under way this week with the mailing of ballots to more than 5,000 newspapermen and members of the PGA.

If Wall wins the title, he will be the first man in its 12-year history to do so without holding either the PGA or U.S. Golfers' Association Open crown. Rosburg won the PGA and Casper the USGA titles.

Oriole Fans Changed Minds About Gene

GENE WOODLING

BALTIMORE (AP)—For Gene Woodling, they came to boo and stayed to cheer.

The 37-year-old outfielder for Baltimore Orioles was honored Tuesday night with Gene Woodling Night. The former New York Yankee and Cleveland Indian was given an automobile, a boat, a heifer for his Ohio farm and other gifts in a pre-game ceremony.

Any player gets a kick out of it, but for Baltimore's one-man batting attack it was something extra special.

"I never thought this night would come," said Woodling before the presentation. "I never thought this would happen to me in Baltimore, not after the way things went that first season here."

In 1955 when the Orioles acquired Woodling from New York for Don Larsen and Bob Turley, Baltimore fans booed him for falling to hit. The harder Woodling tried, the worse he became—and the louder the boos resounded.

Finally, manager Paul Richards traded him to Cleveland. And then the Tribe came to town and Woodling socked Baltimore for something like six hits in a doubleheader.

This time, the Bronx cheers were deafening. Fans thought Woodling really didn't try here.

In 1958 he was traded back to the Orioles. The fans had no chance to boo because Woodling started winning ball games with clutch hits. Since then his stock has risen steadily.

The honors came late for the 37-year-old athlete. He never had a "night" before and only this year, after 11 seasons in the majors, was he named to the American League all-star squad.

Mercs Know Bionda, But Who's Allan?

O'Keefe's Breeze To Opening Win In Lacrosse Final

NEW WESTMINSTER—Peterborough Mercurys had a good look at Jack Bionda in action Tuesday, and even optimistic officials of the Ontario lacrosse team ventured to say they "have a tough row to hoe."

New Westminister O'Keefe, with Bionda showing the way, launched defence of their Mann Cup Canadian senior championship by turning in an easy 12-5 victory over the Mercurys.

Bionda, who during the regular season shattered the all-time Canadian senior lacrosse scoring record with 74 goals and 70 assists, was up to his old tricks by firing four goals and three assists.

JACK STARTS IT The six-foot, 200-pound forward, in his second season here, opened the scoring with an unassisted tally at 2:54 of the first quarter. Before the quarter ended he added two more. He continued the rampage in the second, scoring the fifth O'Keefe goal and setting up three of the next five.

A 10-minute fighting penalty late in the third quarter stalled Bionda's efforts in the second half, but by then O'Keefe completely dominated the play and were content to run out the clock.

Heavily favored to sweep the series, New Westminister took quarter leads of 4-3, 9-4 and 10-4. They outscored Mercurys 2-1 in the last 15 minutes.

Few were surprised with Bionda's performance.

But a scoreless night by dangerous Bobby Allan, of Peterborough, caused a few eyebrows to lift. Allan, who held the modern lacrosse scoring record until this season, had paced Mercurys to the eastern championship.

Fans had looked for a hard battle between the two great scorers of modern lacrosse.

SELDOM DANGEROUS

Allan was closely shadowed in the game and while he took eight shots, he seldom was dangerous.

A highlight of the game was the netminding of 19-year-old rookie Les Norman, of New Westminister. He turned aside 32 shots to outshine the veteran goalie Moon Wootton—Mercurys playing coach.

However, Norman's task was made easier by Peterborough's long-range shooting. Few Mercury forwards ventured too far into the hard-hitting O'Keefe defence.

Second game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled here Thursday, the third Saturday. New Westminister is seeking its 14th Mann Cup triumph, a record.

Green Rules Relaxed

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Golfers will be allowed to clean a ball on the green, repair pitch marks and feel the turf on the green to test it under amendments to the rules announced by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club Tuesday night.

The club, headquarters of the game in Britain, approved the changes after agreement with the U.S. Golf Association. They come into force next Jan. 1.

The two-stroke penalty for striking another player's ball is extended. In future it will apply in any case when both balls lie on the green—not just when they are within 20 yards of the hole.

Other changes are: Flagsticks must be straight and circular in cross-section (definition 12).

A ball dropped in error or in the wrong place may be withdrawn without penalty (Rule 22).

When a player's ball is moved by an agency other than his side, he is entitled to remove his former lie (Rule 27).

A player, after making a stroke, may not call on his caddy or partner to remove an unattended flagstick (Rule 34).

It's a Change: Ponies Taken for a Ride

Here's a switch:
Somebody's making money on horses that are moving, but not running.

The transportation people, y'see, appear to be doing a good business this week by moving horses around the country. So for once, the hay-burners are being taken for a ride... some to Vancouver Island by ferry, some by train to Toronto, and still others by motor vehicle to sunny California.

This is the week Golden Gate Fields track opened its mutuels and caused the equine family to make a mass exodus from Del Mar to San Francisco. And this also happens to be the week that heralds the start of Vancouver Island's 14-day meeting.

The island meet gets under way at Sidney's Sandown Park Saturday, with the class of the stables being groomed for the opening feature... the Times Handicap.

Post time Saturday is 1.45.

Western horses also will make a large-scale invasion on Toronto this weekend. Fifty-one horses, the most formidable western contingent to be lured east in recent years, hope to pick up the biggest share of $310,000 in purses which will be offered at New Woodbine.

The eastern-bound thoroughbreds include many well-known to Island and B.C. racing fans.

Arcan Stable of Vancouver is sending seven horses to Toronto—Pit Boss, Gigantic, Free Stride, Jet Journey, Chino King, Amcan Kathy and Amcan Flower.

Les Leaf, leading trainer on the Prairies for the past three years, is shipping eight from his stables, including the B.C.-bred Tyhawk. Tyhawk set a world record of 1.14.4/5 for 6 furlongs in Arizona last winter and also won a $10,000 purse at the Hollywood Park summer meeting.

Vancouver's Bill Lochead plans to ship his two aces—the mighty Lord Renraw and Sine Wave—to New Woodbine.

And, of course, there's Major Turley. The Island-bred Major was purchased last month by F. M. Clark of Meadow Lake, Sask., from Victoria's Don Carley, for a figure that looks rather like $25,000.

The Prairie climate seems to agree with the Major. Tuesday, for example, he set a track record in winning the featured race at Winnipeg's Assiniboia Downs—the $5,000-added Gold Cup Handicap.

Major Turley, with Elvin Arnold up, covered the 1 1/4 miles in 1.49.2/5 to beat out Foch and Flak Mark. The Major paid a respectable $8.60, $3.70 and $3.20 across the board.

It's a cinch you couldn't get those returns if the good old Major was home at Sandown this week!

Giants Reaching for Do-It-Yourself Kit

It's All Over But the Shouting For White Sox.

(By UP International)

Get the champagne ready, Loole!

Chicago White Sox may be asking you to pop the cork this weekend.

And by that time, San Francisco Giants should let you know definitely one way or the other.

For the White Sox, it's virtually all over but the gala formality of celebrating their first pennant-clinching in 40 years. Their "magic number" now is down to four and for those whose mathematics may be a bit rusty, it simply means the Sox can wrap up the whole business by Friday night.

BOSTON SPOILERS

That was made possible when Cleveland fell 5 1/2 games behind Tuesday by losing to Boston 1-0, after the White Sox had won a 4-3 thriller from the New York Yankees.

The Giants are in good shape, too, although not quite in the commanding position the White Sox are. San Francisco is two games in front of both Milwaukee and Los Angeles, and the Giants meet the Braves in a two-game series at home starting today, then play host to the Dodgers in a three-game set.

Everything worked out perfectly for the Giants Tuesday. They crushed Cincinnati Reds, 13-6, while the Dodgers beat the Braves, 8-7, in 10 innings.

NOBODY CAN HELP

So now all the Giants need is a do-it-yourself kit, because no one is going to do it for them in their next five games with their two chief contenders. They're sending Sam Jones, their rubber-armed 20-game winner against Milwaukee today and the Braves are countering with a 20-game winner of their own, Lew Burdette.

The Giants hammered out 13 hits Tuesday in routing the Reds. They shelled rookie Jay Hook with a five-run burst in the first inning and added three more in the second when Daryl Spencer homered with two on. Willie McCovey had three hits, including his 12th homer.

Reliever Don McMahon walked in the winning run in the 10th inning to enable the Dodgers to climb back into a second-place tie with the Braves. With Los Angeles trailing, 7-6, in the 10th, Maury Wills launched the winning rally with his fifth hit of the game. He eventually scored the tying run on a single and a sacrifice fly and after the Dodgers loaded the bases, Ron Fairly walked to force in the winning run.

BRAVES CAME BACK

Braves trailed 6-3 at one point, but tied the score in the top of the ninth and went ahead in the 10th when Johnny Logan's sacrifice fly scored Joe Adcock, who had homered earlier.

St. Louis defeated Philadelphia, 6-4, in the only other National League game played. The game between Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates was postponed because of cold weather.

White Sox victory over the Yankees marked the 34th game this season they won by one run. The White Sox scored three of their runs—including the winning one—with sacrifice flies to offset Mickey Mantle's 30th and final home runs. Then they killed a final Yankee threat and ended the game with a spectacular double play started by rightfielder Jim Rivera.

Knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm registered his 15th victory for Baltimore Orioles with a four-hit 2-1 triumph over the Tigers in 11 innings.

Washington and Kansas City split a two-nighter, the Senators winning the opener, 1-0, on Camilo Pascual's three-hitter and the As taking the nightcap, 6-2, on Johnny Kuck's five-hit effort.

Royals En Route To Western Final

VANCOUVER (CP) — New Westminster Royals leave here today for Winnipeg and the sudden-death Western Canadian soccer championship match against Winnipeg Scottish.

The B.C. team meets Winnipeg Thursday. Royals shut out Scottish 2-0 last year en route to their seventh Canadian championship.

Western winner will meet Montreal Alouettes, Eastern champions, at Toronto Saturday in a sudden-death Canadian final.

Glory Days Numbered For Turf's 'Mr. Rich'

Round Table, the turf's all-time money-winning champion, will race six more times at the most before being retired to stud in November. It was disclosed Tuesday by owner Travis M. Kerr.

The five-year-old is listed to run in six $100,000 stake races during the next eight weeks. Kerr said, however, "we may not run him in all those races. We'll sort of feel our way along and pick our spots."

Kerr also said that a stud fee of $12,500 has been set for Round Table when he retires to A. B. "Bull" Hancock's Claiborne stud farm near Lexington, Ky.

BOUGHT FOR $175,000

When Kerr purchased Round Table as a three-year-old from Hancock at a reported $175,000, it was stipulated the horse would be returned to Hancock's farm for stud and the Kentucky breeder would retain a percentage of the profits.

Next start for Round Table will be the United Nations handicap at Atlantic City, Saturday.

In addition to this week's race, the other $100,000 tests on Round Table's closing itinerary are the Woodward, at Aqueduct, September 26; the Hawthorne Gold Cup, in Chicago, October 17; Man o' War handicap, at Aqueduct, October 24; Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct, October 31, and the Washington, D.C. International at Laurel, November 11.

Round Table won the Washington Park handicap in Chicago, on Labor Day, his last time out, to boost his earnings to $1,614,539. He has won 7 of 10 starts during 1959 and 41 of 62 through a brilliant three-year career which has seen him shatter 10 track records and equal five others.

SHOEMAKER RECOVERING

Round Table will have to enter the Atlantic City run without Willie Shoemaker, the leading U.S. jockey who was injured in a spectacular spill at Aqueduct Monday.

Shoemaker suffered mild concussion and multiple bruises on his face, chest and legs in a spill during the fifth race of the opening program at the new $33 million Long Island track.

A hospital spokesman said Shoemaker is resting comfortably "but he's going to be pretty sore and stiff for a couple of days. I doubt if he'll be able to ride before next week."

This is the third straight year that Round Table has been chosen to represent the U.S. in the Laurel International race. Kerr declined the two previous bids to race Round Table, but is almost certain to enter him this year. Hillsdale and Sword Dancer have also been invited to compete against foreign entries in the eighth annual 1 1/2-mile turf classic.

Four foreign entries in the field so far are New Zealand's Up and Coming, England's Nagami, Mexico's Lea-B and Japan's Kuripero.

Wonder If Selectors Are Squirming Today?

LONDON (AP) — England cricketer Trevor Bailey Tuesday completed a rare double of 2,000 runs and 100 wickets for the season, a feat no one had accomplished for 22 years.

The 35-year-old veteran was dropped this summer from the English team, after playing regularly in test matches since 1949. But he has had his best-ever season for his county, Essex.

Tuesday he captured his 100th wicket and his 2,000th run playing for the rest of England against the champion county, Yorkshire. It has been done 20 times before, but not since 1937. In that year Jim Parks, Sr., chalked up a unique record of 3,000 runs and 100 wickets.

Yorkshire fought back to win the match, which at one time had seemed hopelessly lost. They rattled up 425 runs in their second innings and left the rest of England to score 202 to win in 170 minutes. The rest totalled only 135 and the champions won by 66 runs.

The season's final statistics show that Mike Smith, Warwickshire and England player, headed the batting averages. Hitting 3,245 runs, he had an average of 57.94.

GOOD YEAR

Aided by brilliant sunshine and fast pitches, 23 cricketers scored over 2,000 runs.

Brian Statham of Lancashire and England topped the bowling averages with 139 wickets at 15.01 runs each. Another pace man, Derek Shackleton of Hampshire, took most wickets, 148, at an average of 21.55.

In addition to Bailey, four other cricketers completed the double of a thousand runs and a hundred wickets. They were George Tribe of Northamptonshire, for the seventh time in eight seasons; Fred Titmus of Middlesex; Ray Illingsworth of Yorkshire and John Mortimore of Gloucestershire.

BARN, HAY DESTROYED IN BLAZE

SOOKE — A two-storey barn and seven tons of hay on Old Otter Point Road were lost in a fire Tuesday afternoon.

Fire Chief Bill Stephenson of Sooke Volunteer Fire Department said firemen were unable to save the barn, but concentrated their efforts on preventing its spread.

Neighbors had saved two tractors, a combine, and a manure spreader parked beside the barn. A flock of 40 sheep, normally kept in an addition to the barn, were placed in another shed.

Owner of the property is Eric Mitchell, Otter Point Road. The barn and contents were partly covered by insurance.

Lottery Charge Dismissed

NANAIMO (CP) — A charge of illegally operating a lottery was dismissed here Tuesday against a firm which gave away chances to win a $1,600 trailer in return for purchases. Pleasant Valley Sales and Service Limited was charged after police seized a barrel of tickets and several books of blank tickets before the draw was scheduled.

Police Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts said that "actions leading to the prosecution were premature" after hearing evidence that the person named on the first ticket drawn from the barrel would have to be on the premises and answer a question.

SKILL REQUIRED — Defence counsel Harold Hine contended that "skill or knowledge" was required for the contest therefore it was operated legally.

"As far as the participants of the scheme were concerned, it was a game of pure chance," said Crown counsel E. D. Strongman.

Magistrate Beevor-Potts agreed with this "to a certain extent," but later said "unless the competition is won and depends entirely on chance, it is not a lottery."

AT PORT ALBERNI

Fair Receipts Cut by Strike

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni District Fall Fair was an outstanding success, but gate receipts were down from last year's record because of the IWA strike, fair board officials reported today.

Paid admissions amounted to only 7,000 compared to last year's 9,000, they said. It was estimated that more than 4,000 children visited the fair free of charge.

One of the highlights was an exhibition of paintings by local artists, which drew a constant stream of visitors during the three-day fair.

Winners of major awards and prizes were Margaret Hind and Philip McKinnon, who received the ADFF and McLellan Trophies, respectively, for showmanship.

The McCoy Lake silver tray was won by Comox Valley 4-H Jersey Club.

COMMERCIAL — The Alberni Valley Retail Merchants Perpetual Shield for best commercial display went to George Miller Paint Co., with Christopher Cabinets second.

Holdout Loggers Settle Disputes

Courtenay, Alberni Workers Last to Head Back to Woods

One of the last steps to complete settlement of the coast woodworkers' strike was taken Tuesday when an injunction granted July 4 was dissolved in Supreme Court in Vancouver.

The injunction was granted by Mr. Justice Norman W. Whittaker to MacMillan & Bloedel (Alberni) Ltd. to have "hot" signs removed from logs in storage and transit.

Counsel for the company and Alberni Local 185 of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) agreed that the injunction should be set aside now that the strike is over.

The strike was settled during the weekend but the union ordered its men to stay away from the Alberni operations until agreement was reached with the company over the injunctions.

Dyer Re-Elected Chairman Of Boxing Body

CHEMUNUS — Al Dyer of Chemunus has been re-elected chairman of the Vancouver Island and District Amateur Boxing Association.

Ham Baillie of Chemunus is secretary-treasurer. Commissioners are: Mickey Weatherbee, Ladysmith and Nanaimo; Jim Wickens, Salt Spring Island; John Retain, Sidney; Howard Curling, Greater Victoria.

Amateur boxing is expected to make a big comeback on the Island this year, according to Mr. Dyer.

"Clubs in Chemunus, Ladysmith, Port Alberni, Salt Spring Island, Sidney and Victoria area already preparing for fall cards and new clubs are being formed in Port Alberni, Qualicum Beach, Victoria and possibly Duncan," Ladysmith was awarded the top amateur event of the year, the 1960 Golden Gloves tourney. The 1960-Bronze-Gloves will be held at Sidney.

Suffocation Killed Man Says Coroner

(From Duncan Bureau)

Born at Creemore, Ontario, Mr. Melville was for a number of years foreman at the Pat Burns ranch at Calgary. Later he was a ferryman at Birch Island, B.C. He had been a resident of Duncan and district for the past 11 years.

Freight Rate Bid Rejected

Transport Board Turns Down Application To Equalize West-East Scale on Lumber

OTTAWA (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners has ruled against equalizing freight rates on lumber in eastern and western Canada.

In a decision announced today, the board rejected an Alberta government application to have it bring the western rates and the lower eastern rates to the same level.

It declared the lumber tolls an exception to the general policy of east-west equalization laid down by Parliament in 1951, exercising discretionary powers given to it in the legislation.

The board found that many lumber rates actually in use are "competitive" ones instituted to meet competition against the Canadian railways and therefore do not come within the scope of the equalization statute.

Equalizing the higher normal rates, the board held, would merely mean setting up a theoretical structure.

Three Types of Rates Apply

The board noted three types of rates apply to lumber:

1. Normal commodity rates within the west.

2. Competitive rates from Western to Eastern Canada established to meet United States rail competition.

3. Competitive rates within Eastern Canada to meet truck transportation.

The board said it does not consider that the normal rates can for practical purposes be used as a basis for equalization.

"Such a formula," it said, "would result in increases in most of the present normal commodity rates within Eastern Canada and reductions in practically all commodity rates within Western Canada.

"The resulting rates within Eastern Canada would be of no material value inasmuch as the major portion of this traffic now moves at much lower motor truck competitive rates, while the reduction in rates within Western Canada could only result in loss of railway revenues.

"It is axiomatic that such loss of revenue on the western traffic could not be offset by increases in rates in the eastern portion of Canada. In the final analysis the adoption of this method would merely be the creation of a theoretical uniform scale of rates."

LUMBER CHIEF URGES CLOSER TIE WITH MEN

VANCOUVER (CP) — A lumber operator says coast employers and unions should hold informal talks during "times of peace" in an effort to prevent strikes.

L. L. G. Bentley, vice-president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., and board chairman of Seaboard Lumber Sales, said in an interview both sides lost in the prolonged coast woodworkers strike just ended.

"The only lesson that can be gained is that we should get together with our labor leaders much more often during times of peace."

"At present there is too much lack of confidence in each other."

He said the informal meetings would allow both sides to get to know and trust each other.

Free Spinal Tests Set For Students

Greater Victoria's 10 chiropractors will give free spinal examinations to all school children next week.

Chiropractor Gordon Clay said parents should make appointments for the free examinations, which will be open to all children attending school, intended to detect posture defects.

The local survey will be part of a B.C.-wide program sponsored for the third year by the provincial chiropractors' association.

Last year 5,000 B.C. children were examined including "several hundred" in Greater Victoria, Mr. Clay said.

Examination results will be sent to parents and also forwarded to the federal government's special committee investigating physical fitness of Canadian youth.

2 SCHOOL GROUPS MEET

Education Needs Widely Varied

SASKATOON (CP) — The varied interests of the Canadian Education Association are apparent to anyone taking a look at today's convention agenda.

Open meetings are being held on physical education and fitness, mentally retarded children, adult education, educational research and the organization of secondary schools.

There is a panel discussion on trends and developments in vocational and technical education.

There are meetings of provincial education ministers, all directors of the CEA, and provincial registrars.

TRADING IDEAS

The accent is on trading of methods and ideas by the 500 delegates.

Final sessions Thursday will be devoted mostly to business meetings.

An address by Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan Tuesday night highlighted the convention's opening day.

Citizenship and Immigration Minister Fairclough spoke to the Canadian Association of School Superintendents and inspectors. Her address ended a three-day CASSI convention.

The Canadian School Trustees Association devoted its time to resolutions on educational uniformity, federal aid, and research.

"The CASTA is holding its final meeting today."

BETTER VALUES

Premier Douglas drew the largest single crowd since the conventions began Sunday night. More than 450 jammed a banquet room to hear him urge educationists to promote human values.

"We must keep driving home that the body is more than just meat... civilization more than electric fridges."

Advances in the physical sciences had outstripped those in the social sciences.

"The school, the church, the democratic society have the great task of narrowing this gap," he said.

RESEARCH FUND

The trustees' convention endorsed a voluntary assessment from member provincial

New York School Boycotting Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Boycotting and picketing ended Tuesday at five Queens schools, racially integrated with more than 300 Negroes from Brooklyn slum areas.

More than 900 of 2,300 white pupils stayed away Monday when the schools opened in Queens. Attendance Tuesday was near normal.

White mothers picketed Monday in opposition to what they termed artificial integration of their schools. They carried signs reading "We don't oppose true integration."

CAMERAMEN IRK ONASSIS WITH CALLAS

ATHENS (AP) — Maria Meneghini and Aristotle Onassis made a surprise appearance in a Greek night club early today. The shipping magnate lost his temper when reporters and photographers showed up.

Miss Callas, who has a reputation of her own for temperance, kept quiet through it all.

The 35-year-old diva, whose marriage to Italian industrialist Giovan Battista Meneghini, 62, went on the rocks last week, arrived Monday with the 55-year-old Onassis off Gyphada, a fashionable resort near Athens, aboard the Greek millionaire's yacht.

About 2 a.m. Onassis and Miss Callas, accompanied by his sister and Greek actor Alexis Minotis, came ashore and went to a night club.

SHOUTING BEGINS

When the reporters and photographers entered the cabaret, Onassis began shouting and making menacing gestures. He threatened to break a photographer's camera.

Finally he calmed down and told photographers they could take his picture but not the singer's.

While the ship owner was posing in sweater and sailor's trousers, Miss Callas made a break for the door and jumped into a white sports car with a friend at the wheel and drove back to the yacht.

About sun-up, Onassis too headed back to his vessel.

groups of five cents a classroom to start a research fund. Delegates also asked that schoolyard and school building improvements be included under the federal winter works program.

A national standard of the highest possible uniformity was recommended for university entrance requirements. The resolution was to be passed on to the Canadian Education Council and the Research Council of Canada.

University Rosters To Zoom in 20 Years

VANCOUVER (CP) — Enrollment in Canadian universities will quadruple in the next 20 years, Dr. Murray G. Ross, vice-president of the University of Toronto, said here Tuesday.

Dr. Ross, addressing a group of former University of Toronto students, said that Canadians must remember the lesson which modern China and Russia have learned from the West—that money spent on education is an investment, not an expense.

Canada is committed to providing a system of mass education "for all who have the desire and ability to do it," he said.

New universities must be built to accommodate the increased enrollments—and to avoid present universities from becoming too big, Dr. Ross said.

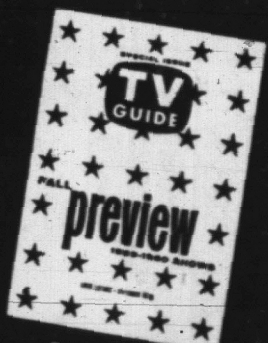

The old royal standard for France, gold fleur-de-lis on blue, occupies the fourth quartering of the Canadian arms.

Atomic Arms 'Not for Canadians'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian armed forces should not be armed with tactical nuclear weapons as long as their use remains under control of some other power, including the United States, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson said Tuesday.

Mr. Pearson made the statement in calling for a nuclear policy that asks the ending of atomic tests as a first step toward abolishment of atomic weapons and atomic warfare. Recent rocket and missile developments, he said, "emphasize the absolute and primary necessity of abolishing atomic weapons and warfare."

A first step was the ending of atomic tests "which if continued for long on any large scale will poison the atmosphere with horrible results on future life."

Canada can play an active and important part in this field, Mr. Pearson said in an address to the Women's Canadian Club of Vancouver.

He outlined a five-point policy, which includes Canadian insistence on being fully informed by the U.S. of the fall-out danger involved in use of the small, tactical atomic weapons designed for battlefield combat.

If the fall-out danger is great, he said, then Canada should take the stand that "we don't intend to either make or use them."

"In any event," he added, "we should refuse to permit our defence forces to be armed even with these new tactical and limited atomic weapons or any other weapons, which remain under the control—as to use—of another power, however close and friendly that power is."

BANS TESTS

The policy outlined by the Opposition leader also would include cessation of nuclear weapons tests "on our side even if the other side refuses—for a period of time at least," and pressing ahead with measures of control and supervision for such prohibitions of the future.

"We can take the lead at the United Nations in pressing for a declaration by all member states that do not now possess atomic weapons that they will not in the future manufacture such weapons," Mr. Pearson said.

"It is bad enough to have two, or three, or even four powers with the capacity for total destruction of peoples. It would be infinitely worse if 15 or 20 or 30 nations—including some feverish and irresponsible dictatorships—had that capacity."

Finally, Mr. Pearson said, members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization should agree that except in case of unprovoked all-out nuclear assault against any country the decision to use atomic weapons of any kind, at any place, should not be made by any one government but only by the NATO council.

Man Badly Hurt As Cars Collide

A 72-year-old Victoria motorist today was badly injured in a traffic accident at the corner of Richardson and Stannard Avenue, in Ross Bay district.

Arthur P. Livingstone-Learmouth, retired, 1535 Richardson Street, was taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering from a punctured lung, fractured ribs and severe shock.

His condition is serious. City traffic police said Mr. Livingstone-Learmouth's 1959 car was in collision with a car driven by Gordon Hallam, 1265 Downham Place, in the centre of the Richardson and Stannard intersection. Mr. Hallam escaped injuries.

The accident took place at 9:23 a.m.

The injured man's car was sent spinning across Richardson on to a lot at 464 Stannard. The door of the driver's seat was caved in by the impact, crushing the elderly man.

Apparently the collision took place when Mr. Livingstone-Learmouth, driving west on Richardson, made a left-hand turn to go down Stannard. Mr. Hallam's car came up from behind.

MONTE ROBERTS

Jokes which won't live long enough to enter the Old Jokes Home.

So there was this fellow, and he was out fishing with this other fellow, and they were fishing near Brothie Ledge.

And pretty soon this first fellow felt a tug on the end of his line, and he reeled in his line, and what do you know? There was a great big salmon-type fish on the end of his line.

So he pulled the fish into the boat and conked it on the head with a blunt instrument and then he reached over and started the motor in the boat.

But this other fellow (remember him?) didn't like the idea of quitting fishing and he said so, asking why they had to stop now?

So this first fellow, the one who landed the fish, said it was easy to explain.

"When I've caught a coho," he said, "I've caught a coho."

Har de har har.

So there was another fellow (don't tel' me you're still with me) who went all around and about the town asking where he could find a coho.

Until finally somebody was foolish enough to ask "What is a coho?"

And the fellow chorled: "It's a key to open a zoo."

Har de har har.

And then there was this OTHER fellow who attended a social evening but unfortunately he had one over the dozen before he arrived and was very obnoxious and so obnoxious that he quite spoiled the whole tenor of the social evening.

So the next day a friend of this OTHER fellow was berating him for spoiling the evening, which, after all, had been organized simply for the exchange of light conversation.

And this friend demanded to know, what did this OTHER fellow have to say for himself?

"What CAN I say," came the reply, "after I say I'm sincere?"

Har de har HAR.

Found guilty of criminal negligence, Edward C. Beecroft, 19, of 201 Battledore Avenue, was fined $125 in city police court today. His licence was suspended.

Magistrate William Ostler said Beecroft drove his car recklessly and with a disregard for the lives of other persons on the morning of August 31.

Evidence at the trial showed that Beecroft was speeding between 60 and 65 miles an hour, racing with another car, and weaving in and out of traffic. He also shot through a red light at Bay and Douglas while being pursued by Const. John Isaac.

View Royal Garden Club will meet in the Community Hall on Wednesday, September 23, at 8 p.m. J. E. Underhill will give an illustrated talk on rock gardens.

It was to be unloaded by the 100-ton crane at the Government Graving Dock jetty.

Official opening of another college year Thursday will illustrate graphically the growth of Victoria College.

Hundreds of students will stand in the college auditorium and hall outside as more than 1,000—a new record—are expected to turn out for the 10 a.m. assembly. There are only 300 seats in the auditorium.

Formal welcomes will be extended to the students by Judge J. B. Clearhugh, president of the college council, principal Dr. H. H. Hickman and student council president Tony Robertson.

Students begin regular classes Monday at 8:30 a.m. when the fall term opens.

Regular registration ends Thursday afternoon but some late registrations are expected Monday.

One out of every six persons in Greater Victoria will receive help during the coming year because of the Community Chest, Eric Mallett, chairman of the 1959 campaign, said today.

"Broadly speaking, they will get this help because the public cares about them," Mr. Mallett told a luncheon meeting of Victoria Life Underwriters in the Pacific Club.

"And if the public cares sufficiently we will have no difficulty reaching our target of $325,000 in this year's campaign."

Mr. Mallett said he was confident the target would be reached.

He gave a summary of how the 22 welfare agencies served by the Community Chest operate each day throughout the year.

NANAIMO WARMEST

Nanaimo proved itself to be the warmest spot in Canada Tuesday with a maximum temperature of 66 degrees for the day.

Victoria lagged with a drab, dull 62 degrees. The weatherman said skies will be mainly cloudy tonight, with sunny periods Thursday morning followed by rain.

'Survival' Exercise On Island Next Week

Canadian Army troops will take part in a "National Survival" exercise on Vancouver Island starting next Tuesday.

The exercise will provide training for the army's recently-announced role in the national survival concept which succeeded civil defence.

Members of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will be engaged in the exercise, along with the 3rd Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack.

The exercise is based on the possibility of nuclear attack, and will train troops in rescue operations, radiation monitoring, and re-entry into a bombed area.

Initial stages call for the Victoria-based unit to operate under direct command of B.C. area headquarters at Vancouver, the Chilliwack "Sappers" will move to the island by army transport, and make contact with the Princess Pats near Nanaimo.

Later stages will require the troops to move into Victoria as a mobile support group under command of Lt. Col. James Allen, CO of the PPCLI. They will carry out drill under the assumption Victoria was the target for a nuclear explosion.

Director of the exercise will be Brigadier J. W. Bishop, B.C. area commander, assisted by Col. Roy Smillie, area medical officer.

Mr. Pearson also made it clear that the provincial Liberal policy on power development was a step ahead of federal policy.

"That's not a federal Liberal proposal," he said of the B.C. party resolution that all future power development in B.C. should be by a public agency.

But he added, public ownership of power in the east "has been pretty efficient. Few people in Ontario would like to go back to private power."

He said he believed in the broad principle of public ownership in its application to public utilities, but he would want to consider each application "in the light of all surrounding conditions."

Canadian Destroyer Obsolete?

Pearson Fears
Atomic Subs

Canada's proud new line of destroyer-escorts may be obsolete in the face of the new atomic submarine, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson said today.

He told a press conference at Empress Hotel "Canada's modern destroyer escorts against conventional snorkel type subs may still be an effective weapon, but what about the new atomic submarine? We may have to change the whole basis of defence."

He felt Canada should take a "hard look" at its $1.4 billion defence spending "in terms of new capability of attack."

Although the government is going ahead with Bomarc missile plans "there is still a great controversy in the U.S." concerning the value of such armament. They are of no importance against nuclear missiles and now there is doubt they would prove an effective defence against the super bombers of the Soviet Union.

On political matters, Mr. Pearson said he would not put forward a Liberal blueprint put forward at the last provincial convention of the party at Vancouver. He said however, the B.C. Liberal formula for industrial peace — profit-sharing by industry — "is purely a provincial proposal" at this time.

(B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault, who accompanied Mr. Pearson here today, has stated his party, if in power, would create benefits for industry which would endorse co-ownership as a means of ending labor-management disputes and resulting wage and price spirals.)

Mr. Pearson said the proposal "seems to have a good deal of merit. It is something we ought to be looking at in Ottawa, when we as a federal party have to put forward proposals of our own."

There is a demand within certain sections of the party for a nominating convention as soon as possible, and before the annual meeting of the provincial party at Harrison Hot Springs Oct. 30 and 31.

Mr. Pearson said he was out of town and could not be reached for comment but friends say although he has made no direct statement, he does not deny the possibility.

They say his recent acceptance of a post on a federal government railway committee indicates his willingness to come out of political retirement.

Mr. Anscomb, 67, is a former reeve of Oak Bay, and a former mayor of Victoria. First elected to the legislature in 1933, he served as minister of public works, minister of railways, and minister of municipal affairs before becoming minister of finance in 1946, a post he held for six years.

He is recalled as one of the finest orators in recent B.C. legislative history.

Mr. Anscomb is undoubtedly the most experienced man available for the task of leading the Conservatives of this area. There is speculation, if he were elected, he would challenge Deane Finlayson for leadership of the party in B.C.

Former Leader Heads List Of 'Possibles'

By PETE LOUDON
Times Political Reporter

Executive of the Victoria Progressive Conservative Association is expected to meet before the end of the month to consider the names of three potential candidates to represent the city in the next provincial election.

According to several authorities within the organization, the name of Herbert Anscomb, former minister of finance in the Coalition government, will be one of three put forward.

Association president James McElroy said today he would not commit himself on the possible nomination of Mr. Anscomb "pending a meeting at the end of the month."

There was little uniformity among guesses who the other two candidates might be. It was learned Eric Charman, Victoria investment counsellor, had been asked and had refused to consider the job at this time.

Economic Blow To North Pender

Loss was estimated at $150,000 in an overnight fire that destroyed the National Packing Co. Ltd. herring reduction plant at Shingle Bay, on North Pender Island.

It broke out between midnight and 6 a.m., and smoke and flames billowed in clouds into the mist hanging over the island and adjacent waters. Cause was not known.

The blaze dealt a severe blow to the economic life of the island, since it was considered a reliable source of income for residents during the fishing season. It employed up to 12 persons per shift, and at the height of the season operated three shifts per day.

The alarm was given by D. Murphy, watchman, who lives 400 yards from the site, and who awoke this morning to find a dense pall of smoke over the whole area.

FROM SALT SPRING
He called the North Pender Island volunteer fire department, and Forest Service crews came from Salt Spring Island by boat with hose and pumps.

Firefighters attempted only to contain the blaze in the huge frame building, and to prevent its spread to other buildings and brush near by.

At 11 a.m. today it was reported under control.

Owner of the plant was John C. Jackson Ltd. of Vancouver.

This was the second fire to occur at this particular spot. A herring reduction plant operated there many years ago, but shortly after it was sold by G. D. Humphreys of Salt Spring Island, in 1947, it burned.

It was rebuilt completely in 1947 by new owners, and different machinery was installed. The Jackson interests acquired the plant in December, 1957.

LANDMARK
The vast building, half of which extended over the water, was a landmark on the western shore of North Pender Island, and was directly across Swanson Channel from Beaver Point on Salt Spring Island.

Company officials said the loss of the plant and machinery was covered by insurance.

It had last worked in May of this year, when herring were running in Gulf Islands waters, then was closed as runs moved north. It was scheduled to open again with the start of herring fishing in October.

The plant produced herring meal used in the manufacture of feed for cattle, poultry, swine and other livestock, and fish oil used for foodstuffs, soap and other products.

"We feel that in the vast majority of cases such a procedure is not in the public interest since when costs are placed on a comparable basis, the forces of competition between contractors will be to the taxpayers' benefit both from the standpoint of cost and efficiency."

Q. What is the diameter of the present one-cent Canadian coin? J.M.

A. It is .75 of an inch. This is for the common "small" coin. The larger one cent pieces are exactly one inch across.

Q. To settle a discussion you tell us how to pronounce Mr. Khrushchev's name. Some announcers say "ov" on the end, others "ev." E.H.L.

A. Proper pronunciation is Kru-shchev. The ending "ov" in Russian and Ukrainian, and by many other words of central and eastern Europe, Kru-shchev is, almost, the proper way to say it, but like all words from other languages there is no reason why they can't be adapted to make it easier for the English tongue. The average persons speaking English would choke on the proper pronunciation of the "Khr" portion of the name, for example.

Three hundred B.C. doctors and their wives are coming to Victoria for the annual meeting of the B.C. Medical Association in the Empress Hotel Oct. 14-17.

"We expect one of the largest registrations in our 60-year history," Dr. J. F. Tysoe, president, said today.

The program of events will be under direction of a committee of Victoria doctors chaired by Dr. W. A. Falk.

Dr. Kirk-Lyon, Canadian deputy to the president of the Canadian Medical Association this year, will give the major address at a luncheon meeting Oct. 15.

He said people sometimes ask what is the cost of administration of the Community Chest campaign. This amounted to only 6 4/5 cents out of every Chest dollar in spite of the tremendous amount of work involved.

On Tuesday Mr. Mallett spoke at a meeting of the public service division of the campaign—the division's final meeting before the drive opens Sept. 25.

Verne Davidson, chairman, reported that final arrangements have been made to supply Chest kits to the hundreds of canvassers who will help the drive.

As part of the forthcoming campaign, Victoria YWCA is holding an open-house program to show what the YWCA and YMCA—both affiliated with the Community Chest—are doing in their youth and community endeavors.

The public is invited to visit the YWCA premises at 760 Courtney between 7 and 4 this afternoon, 7 and 9 to-night, and between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Thursday.

One In Six Victorians to Get Community Chest Aid

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

One out of every six persons in Greater Victoria will receive help during the coming year because of the Community Chest, Eric Mallett, chairman of the 1959 campaign, said today.

"Broadly speaking, they will get this help because the public cares about them," Mr. Mallett told a luncheon meeting of Victoria Life Underwriters in the Pacific Club.

"And if the public cares sufficiently we will have no difficulty reaching our target of $325,000 in this year's campaign."

Mr. Mallett said he was confident the target would be reached.

He gave a summary of how the 22 welfare agencies served by the Community Chest operate each day throughout the year.

"Today in Victoria there are 270 children in care—orphans, deserted children and neglected waifs."

"Today in Victoria members of the Victorian Order of Nurses (VON) will make 100 calls in this area. The Silver Threads volunteers will make four visits to old people and five others will be interviewed."

"Fourteen persons will be treated today by physiotherapists at the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society's clinic on Collinson Street."

"At the Canadian National Institute for the Blind on Blanshard Street, blind men and women are being taught to fashion baskets, and a blind wife is learning how to pour tea."

Mr. Mallett said the Family and Children's Service, 1951 Cook, gets the largest proportion of the Community Chest dollar—about 25 cents—and it is looking after 447 children at the present time.

Dutch New Canadian Weds His Childhood Sweetheart

Five years ago, Jacques Robert Nyhoff came to Canada from his native Holland, leaving behind his childhood sweetheart, Clara Van Zomeren.

Eight months ago, Bob went back to Holland. The couple met again and became engaged. Last week Clara stepped off the plane in Victoria.

Saturday, Clara and Bob were married at the little First Christian Reformed Church at Hillside and Cedar Hill Cross Roads. Rev. R. W. Pompa officiated.

The bride wore a gown she had made herself and brought from Holland. It was of delicate lace with long sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Her chapel veil was held by a tiny sequin coronet, and she carried a bouquet of white rosebuds.

Bridesmaid, Riek Krulzme and two little flower girls, daughters of Rev. and Mrs. Pompa, attended the bride.

Best man was T. Vanderley. Following an up-island honeymoon, the newlyweds will live in Prince George.

A reception was given prior to the wedding by Mme. E. A. Vautrin, 1162 McLure, to introduce the bride to some of Victoria's new Dutch Canadians. Guests included Mr. A. Lammermans Van Bueren, Mr. T. Van

LOUISE DAVIS

ON ETIQUETTE

HUSBAND HAS WRONG IDEA:

The daughter of an ex-college friend in a far off city is to be married and I want to send a wedding gift. My husband has never met the girl or her parents and isn't interested in them, so it would seem slightly hypocritical to sign the card with both our names. Would it be bad form if I sign just my own?

Louise

Louise Davis Answers:

You and your husband are a team now so I suggest you include his name on the card even though your husband will never meet the bride. Surely you send greeting cards in both your names even though one of you may be a stranger to the recipient. It would be thoughtless and inconsistent to be one-sided in sending a wedding gift in your name only. After all, it is quite likely that you have never met your young friend's fiancé. What you send to the bride is meant for the bridegroom too. If the son of one of your husband's close college friends were getting married, and if your husband wanted to send a gift, surely he would expect both your names to be on the card. Remind him that the young man's fiancée might to a total stranger to him.

SIGNATURE FOR SECOND MARRIAGE

Supposing Helen Ingersoll married a man named Campbell who died. She later marries a man named Latham. Should she now use as her signature Helen Ingersoll Latham or Helen Campbell Latham?

Louise Davis Answers:

She signs Helen Ingersoll Latham. When she remarried, Campbell disappeared from her name and signature. Children by her first husband would be Campbells, unless Mr. Latham adopted them.

Miss Adelaide Price left Victoria today for Vancouver where she is entering the University of British Columbia. Tinted Foundation Adds a Glow

A tinted make-up foundation can do a lot for a girl. Properly applied and buffed down with cleansing tissue, it provides a glow for the skin as well as protection from wind, sun, heat or cold. Some foundation creams or lotions keep the skin moisturized all day long.

But in applying tinted foundation, bear in mind that it should go on lightly. And pick a shade that's close to your own natural skin tones. Otherwise, what you'll get will be a sharp contrast to white arms and hands.

This defeats the very purpose you had in using the foundation: a natural, glowing look. It creates an enameled, artificial look that's as dated as high-button shoes.

Don't regard a tinted foundation as a cover-up for blemishes, either. This is a matter to be handled separately and not to be coated over with cosmetics.

BACKSLIDING

It's astonishing that people who have gone on a diet successfully often tend to backslide once the weight is off. But they do, and presently the pounds come back.

A diet is more than just habits. If you're to keep your weight where you want it from then on, you must remember that you're going to have to be calorie-conscious.

This may not be fun but who said it should be? And the rewards are more energy, a better figure, a younger-looking you. Bear in mind that when dessert comes around, your answer must be "No, thank you," unless dessert happens to be fresh fruit or cheese.

It may be a help if you look at it this way: you can't possibly begin to eat all of the sweets and rich foods there are, so why be concerned about them at all?

Change of weather can sometimes cause skin problems which have been dormant to blossom anew.

A soothing antiseptic cream, applied daily, is another help. And bath oil in the nightly bath can soothe and refresh the skin, leaving it with a silky feeling.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrance and family of Port Alberni were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hepburn, Fulford, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Hepburn honored their daughter, Mhora, with a farewell square dance party prior to her leaving to attend college in Nelson.

Valerie Ann Rose Lovely Bride For Her Marriage to Bill Shick

A wedding of interest took place in First United Church recently, when Valerie Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard James Rose of Victoria, exchanged vows with Warner Thomas (Bill) Shick, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Adam Shick of Winnipeg.

Rev. A. I. Higgins conducted the evening service in a setting of white chrysanthemums and stocks. Mrs. Roberto Wood was organist.

The bride made an enchanting picture as she entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a classically styled gown of white taffeta sweeping to the floor en train.

Bodice was trimmed with Chantilly lace and was enhanced by a wide portrait neckline. A wide pouff effect below the waist ended in a bustle at the back. Her misty fingertip veil was caught by a sequin and pearl studded headpiece. White chrysanthemums, rapture roses and ivy were in the bridal bouquet.

Orchid pink velvet formed the lovely dresses worn by attendants. Mrs. P. G. Fletcher, matron of honor; bridesmaid, Mrs. G. B. Cameron, and Miss Judy Rose, bridesmaid. Gowns had scoop necklines and were sleeveless. Trio had elbow length gloves and headpieces of velvet en tone. All carried bouquets of pink and white chrysanthemums.

Lyle Newton was best man and ushers were Gerald B. Cameron and Bruce Morrison.

Following the service a guard of honor formed outside the church of members of the Victoria Girls' Drill Corps, of which bride was a member.

Newlyweds cut a three tier cake at the reception in the Golden Slipper Supper Club. Mother of the bride received guests wearing a dress in cherry pink shantung. Her floral hat was in tone and she had a corsage of white gardenias. Mrs. Shick wore a cocoa toned gown of lace. Her accessories were in cream tone and her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses.

Leslie B. Matthews proposed the toast to the bride. The bride chose a rose pink tailored suit with black accessories as her going-away outfit. Her tiny hat was of black velvet and feathers. She had a corsage of roses.

After a honeymoon travelling on the island and the mainland, Mr. and Mrs. Shick will make their home at 1035 West 12th Avenue, Vancouver.

No Coffee Breaks In Russia
—Accent on Exercise

Yesterday I mentioned my recent visit to the Russian exhibit at the "Conservation of Health" show in New York City, where I interviewed some of the people who were there from Moscow. I was interested in learning about sports they enjoy and their program of physical culture.

Football is their most popular game. This is not like our football but like our soccer. This is literally a game of the masses. Practically every school, factory and village in the Soviet Union has its own team. More than a million players take part regularly in official games.

Make no mistake about it, the Russians have an extensive physical fitness program and they take it seriously. The Soviet Union is constantly increasing the sums it spends on this. Physical fitness is considered a matter of great national importance and it encompasses all age groups.

There are two branches of physical culture in the Soviet Union. There is the official or state branch and there is also the voluntary branch. I have been informed that the number of factory and office workers who take part in sports increased by almost four million during 1956 alone. Instead of coffee breaks, there are exercise breaks in many of the factories of the Soviet Union. These last from five to seven minutes and it has been proven that they lessen fatigue and increase productivity.

To show you how imbued the Russians are with this idea, I will tell you that school boys try hard to get the BGTO badge, which gets its name from the Russian words which mean "Be ready for labor and defence."

The Russians do not play golf but they ski and skate and play football, tennis and ping pong.

When I think of all the conveniences we have and of all the cars we have—when I remember that our teenagers do not like to walk a mile unless they are running a mile in competition—I am convinced that we have a great need for a physical fitness program!

Here is a family-pleasing meal... another in the collection of recipes for the "Better Meals Build Better Families" campaign which is on at present. It's a platter of pork chops cooked with tangy tomato sauce.

Serve Family Tasty Pork Chops

Indian summer echoes the last sentiments of the warm holiday weather. This is a time to be outdoors during the day.

The evenings, however, bring a cool reminder that cooler days are approaching quickly.

A reminder that hearty meals are the answer for hungry families.

If ever there was a family-pleasing meal, it's a platter of pork chops. Cook them in a tangy tomato sauce to add variety and flavor.

Sauce for the chops is always creamy and smooth, when it comes right from a can of condensed tomato soup. Brown the chops in a skillet and pour on the rosy soup. Slide a thin slice of onion on top of each chop to join flavors with the meat and tomato soup. This hearty, quick and easy family dish can be served with hot rolls; baked potatoes and a crisp tossed salad. Dessert can include seasonal fresh fruit.

Fifty Years Is Fifty Years!

Next month my husband would have been married to his first wife 50 years if she had lived. But she didn't live, you understand. She died. My husband wants US to celebrate his 50th wedding anniversary. I told him it was not proper as we have been married to each other for only 20 years. He said that 50 years of married life was 50 years of married life and it didn't matter who he started out with. He was finishing up with me. How can I stop him from making a fool of himself? We've been quarreling about this all month. CONFUSED the misfortune of marrying the wrong man when I was 19. My marriage lasted only one year but it seems that I must carry the stigma of this "disgrace" forever.

I've been going with a young man for the past two years. He has put off introducing me to his family until finally he ran out of excuses. He finally admitted that his mother wouldn't like me because she is against divorce. I love this man, Abby, and I know he loves me. But I want to get married. What is a divorcee supposed to do? Kill herself?

SANDRA
DEAR SANDRA: Is divorce against the religious principles of this man's family? If so, you are fighting a losing battle and you would be wise to give him up. If this is not the reason, your friend is simply not adult enough to face his mother with the facts, in which case you are lucky to know it now.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TRYING HARD": You married a man who is emotionally in knee-pants. But he is your husband. Lead him—do not push him.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your body, previous liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unblocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—We were at London Airport a few hours ago when we saw Henry Fonda reading a book, so naturally we interrupted him.

"Vacation?" we said. Removing his glasses and putting his book aside unhappily, Hank said:

"No, I came over to sell my new western TV series called 'Deputy.' I had a press conference for about 75 British reporters."

"How did they treat you?" we asked.

Hank looked down into the beer he was slowly drinking. He recalled that one reporter said to him, "Mr. Fonda, you're 53 years old..."

"I said to him, 'No, 54.' He said 'Aren't you a little old to be playing a cowboy?' I said, 'I'm not playing a cowboy. I'm playing a middle-aged marshal.'"

Another one called out: "We expected more out of you after 'Ox-Bow Incident' and '12 Angry Men'."

Fonda retorted to the interrogator: "I have my shelf full of trophies for those pictures, but no money on my shelf. On this series, which I will produce and appear in part of the time, I hope to make some money."

Fonda laughed as he reported the result.

"So the headline read, 'FONDA BROKE'."

Hank went to sleep after we jettied out over the Atlantic. I'm not sure he heard the little pleasantries of Frank Nagy, the pursuer, from Uniontown, Pa., who, as he swept up the aisles, said, "My mother thinks I'm a pilot," or, as we were over Scotland, called out: "Next stop, Philadelphia."

But Hank told me of a certain British Lord and his lady hurrying through dinner recently because of a TV show they couldn't miss.

"Do you know what it was?" Hank said. "Wagon Train."

'RARE' STAMP MARKET SKIDS

WINNIPEG (CP)—The bottom dropped out of the market for misprinted seaway stamps today with the official announcement that at least 2,000 have been released for public sale.

J. H. Carpenter, Ottawa post office philatelic expert, said the mechanics of stamp printing and packaging insured at least 10 full sheets of 200 freak stamps—once valued at $1,000—now are spread across Canada.

An Ottawa dealer Monday discovered a full panel of 50 misprinted stamps in mint condition, the latest find of the five-cent stamps issued last month.

Winnipeg dealer Kasimir Bileski, who Monday offered $900 for any freak seaway stamp, said today his new price is $100. A financial firm was backing his attempt to buy 1,000 of the stamps at that price.

The central portion of each red and blue misprint is upside down in relation to the border.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Bonita Rhinier, aged 12, of Lancaster, Penn., for her question:

Does a Question Ever Stump Andy?

Andy says there is nothing mysterious about the way he answers your questions. If you had enough books, enough time and enough scholarly friends you could find all the answers for yourselves. This means that Andy does not have anything up his sleeve and is just as likely to get stumped with a question as you are. However, he does love to track down the answers and write them in words that you can understand—and he loves this kind of detective work.

The Age of Science is still quite young and there are many things we do not yet know. We do not know how magnets and copper make electricity or how a little green leaf makes plant sugar from air, sunlight and water. Andy cannot explain these things because the experts do not yet understand them.

But new things are being discovered every year. New facts are added to our learning and often old theories have to be scrapped. This happened recently in the science of astronomy. The experts came up with some entirely new figures on the distances of the faraway galaxies. The figures of two or three years ago are now quite out of date. Scientists and everyone else seeking facts are likely to make mistakes now and then. More likely, as they gather new facts, their old theories and figures have to be changed.

It seems that Andy has some new readers who are not quite sure about the rules for the column and this would be a good time to re-explain them. You may ask Andy any question that puzzles you and you may ask as many questions as there are stars in the sky. Be sure your hand writing is clear enough for Andy to read.

Post Card Best Method

Your questions may be sent in a letter or on a postcard, but a postcard is much better. It is simpler for you to write on a card, cheaper for you to mail and easier for Andy to read.

You may write as many questions as you like on one card. But please, please do not forget the basic information. Sign your name clearly, give your age and your home address. Andy cannot select your question if he cannot read your writing. If there is no name or home address or if you have forgotten to put your age.

Andy tries to select a question which will be of interest to everyone. This usually means that it is one of the popular questions—one asked by a great number of readers. For example, this summer, several hundred of you asked about fireflies. Andy could choose only one question, though many others were just as good. His older readers know about this and are not sad or mad when someone else is selected. It is just something which cannot be helped.

Perhaps you are one who asked about fireflies or some other popular question. If so, you know that you are smart enough to ask a question good enough to be selected, even though it was selected from some other reader. Since you can ask one good question you can ask a million others and all you have to do is try, try again.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Donald Ramsey, age 14, of Indianapolis, Ind., for his question:

What is a timberline?

A timberline is a line beyond which the trees do not grow. It may be where the trees end on the side of a mountain. Higher up there are only small, hardy shrubs and, if the mountain is a tall one, higher still the plant life ends in a cloak of eternal snow. A timberline is also a borderline where the trees give way to the scrubby tundra of the frozen north.

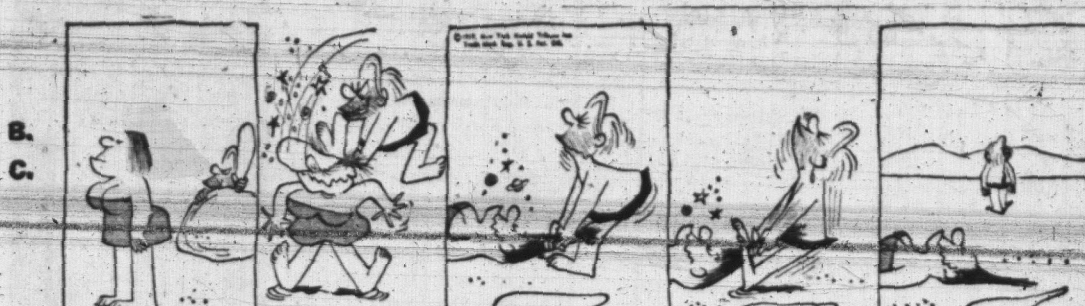

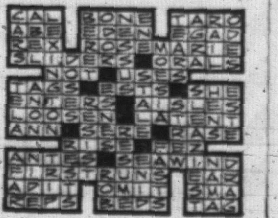

Trees have deep roots and deep moist soil far below the surface. On the tundra and on cold mountain heights there is no deep rich soil to support them. On mountains in northern latitudes, the timberline is low, perhaps only a few thousand feet. Near the equator, where warm air constantly circulates up from the ground, the timberline on a mountain side reaches up much higher.

Damages inflicted by insects in Canada amount to more than $300,000,000 a year, exclusive of cost of control measures.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Crucial Business for Students

By JOHN MIKA

You can't advise your son what high school courses to take if he wants to become a doctor.

The Parent-Teacher Association council will consider what it can do to help, president Mrs. Irene Byers said today.

Mrs. Byers said "it definitely would be a good thing" if arrangements could be made to outline to parents of high school students what the university program electives can or cannot do for their children.

Choosing electives is a crucial business because it shapes the future possibilities for the high school students enrolled in the university program.

For example, graduation from the four-year university program—Grade 9 to Grade 12—with a certain grouping of subjects can open the doors of law school and at the same time lock those of the engineering faculty to that graduate.

Which is fine if the student wants to enter law; a tragedy if he always had planned for an engineering career.

All the resources of Greater Victoria's high schools are available to each student to prevent such mistakes. Teachers and counsellors, after considering performance levels, demonstrated interests and IQ tests, advise pupils before they select courses.

But parents too are sought for advice by the youngsters in many cases and many of these have no facts on which to base suggestions. That's where the PTA may be able to help.

A school board official pointed out that parents are welcome, and strongly urged, to contact schools for information regarding their children's courses.

"Parents of high school children should come to the school to check these things at least once a year," the school board official said. "Too often the parents come only when there is trouble—and often that is too late."

"I've heard so often from parents that they didn't want to bother us. Well what are we here for except to help in the education of their children?"

For those parents who need it, here's a short introductory course to the facts of electives as outlined by the school board official.

Starts in Grade 9

The big division of pupils occurs in Grade 9 when some enter the university program and others the general program. Graduation from the university program makes the student eligible for enrollment in a university. The general program graduation certificate will not.

The cleavage begins in Grade 9 in the mathematics section only. Students in both programs can take the same subjects except that the university student must take Mathematics 10—which is the introduction to the "academic" maths of geometry and algebra. The general program student may take mathematics courses 11 or 12, or Commerce 11, which are practical mathematics dealing primarily with arithmetic and elementary record keeping.

This cleavage widens in grades 10, 11 and 12 until the subjects in the two courses are entirely on different levels.

To enter university, a graduate must have three majors. A major is a course of specialization, such as English or science, which the pupil has taken for at least four years.

In addition, to requiring three majors, the universities also demand a compulsory minimum of courses in the other fields. Thus every graduate must have four years of English, three years of social studies, health and personal developments and academic mathematics, and two years of science and a foreign language.

Needs 35 More

With each course worth five credits, this will give him a total of 85 credits. But to graduate he must have another 35 credits—seven extra subjects taken over the four-year period.

These seven subjects are electives. They, decide what the graduate's three majors will be. What the three majors are decides what fields of university study can be pursued by the graduate.

Thus, a student who wishes to enter the foreign languages faculty will take not only the minimum two years of a foreign language, French for example, but will continue its study throughout grade 9 to 12. In addition, he also will take all the other languages available including two English courses offered in grade 12.

(French is offered in all the high schools, Latin in most, German and Spanish in some.) Election of the language courses would be the student from the science faculty at university because some of the essential science and mathematics subjects would have to be missed for lack of time and therefore they could not be "majors" as required.

Larger schools offer more "major" study courses. Some electives offered that are of use in very narrow fields are introductory courses in law, economics and home economics.

Give Him Scope

In addition to the academic electives, it is possible for a student to take one subject more than he needs in any year. These give him scope for choosing subjects purely for their interest value, such as art, music, drama, industrial arts and journalism. However, these can be skipped entirely.

The various combinations that can be worked out with the electives is enormous. "That's why parents should not let any year go by without coming to the school to consult the counsellor, teacher or principal while their children are in grades 9 to 12," the official said.

Three Officials Split Power Board Authority

B.C. Power Commission has abolished the post of general manager and will split senior authority among three members of the present staff.

Acting general manager R. C. McMordie, chief engineer, will remain as principle officer of the commission. He becomes manager of engineering and operations and chairman of the senior staff executive committee.

Garth Griffiths will be administrative officer, directing activities of the power districts, legal, personnel, load development, information and secretariat divisions.

L. R. A. Mills will have responsibility for supervision and control of commission finances.

SAME PAY

Mr. McMordie's salary is set at $18,000 a year plus $2,000 as chairman of the executive committee. (This is an increase from his previous post as chief engineer but the same as he was paid as acting general manager.) Mr. Griffiths will receive $15,500 and Mr. Mills $12,500.

All appointments were effective Tuesday.

Power commission chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, who announced the new system, said an improved liaison with the various departments is planned. Commissioner F. A. Lee will work closely with the operations branch; Commissioner F. A. Smith will work with the new finance division. Dr. Keenleyside will maintain connection with administration.

The shuffle of control positions follows a pruning of various departments this summer, brought about by completion of the Strathcona, Georgia and Ash River developments. By the end of October 50 technicians, principally engineers and draughtsmen, will have been released. All were given two months notice.

Dr. Keenleyside expressed thanks of the commission to Mr. McMordie for filling in as acting general manager during the period following dismissal of previous manager H. Lee Briggs last November. Mr. Briggs was released after he criticized what he felt was political interference by the premier in power commission financing.

HELP FLOWN TO YOUTH WITH POLIO-PNEUMONIA

OTTAWA (CP) — A respirator was flown here by RCAF mercy flight from Toronto Tuesday night in a bid to save the life of a 19-month-old boy admitted to Civic Hospital with bulbar polio complicated by pneumonia.

The boy, Robert Derouche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Derouche of Cornwall, Ont., was one of four new cases admitted Tuesday night, three of them from the Cornwall district.

Their admission brought the total now being treated in Ottawa hospitals for polio to 33, of whom 17 are from the Cornwall area.

3 Ship Contracts Asked for Coast

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government has been asked to award shipbuilding contracts worth $9,250,000 to west coast shipyards.

A letter sent to Prime Minister Diefenbaker from the Citizens Committee on Shipyard Employment asks for these contracts.

One of two ships to be presented to the West Indies Federation;

Replacement of the lightship Estevan which works on the B.C. coast;

A dredge proposed for the Fraser River.

The letter, sent after a conference with the prime minister here Sept. 5, said 1,500 men have been laid off in the last two years and another 25 per cent cut will be made next March when current contracts are completed.

The letter said the department of transport has awarded $47,725,000 worth of contracts

Play-Banned Author Hits At Church

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — Novelist Peter DeVries, nettled by a priest's protest against one of his plays, has denounced the Roman Catholic Church as "a regimented organization which has no business meddling in secular affairs."

His play The Tunnel of Love was scheduled for production next month by the Westport Community Theatre. The Westport Parent-Teachers Association council is to help sell tickets and share in the proceeds of the production.

The Tunnel of Love is a comedy about a suburban husband who becomes the father of an illegitimate child.

Last week the Greens Farms School PTA executive committee voted to withdraw sponsorship after Rev. Cornelius Looney, pastor of St. Luke's Church, told the school's principal the church considers the play immoral.

In speaking out against the church, DeVries said he was talking "not as an author of a banned play, but as a citizen of a democratic nation."

The Greens Farms School PTA, he said, had showed itself "invertebrate" by its action.

AMBUSH SUCCESSFUL

Bandit Killed By Police Guns

COLLEGE PLACE, Wash. (AP) — Two blasts from a shotgun killed an ex-convict Tuesday night as he walked away from a robbery into an ambush by sheriff's officers and police.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Arthur Klundt said the man was Wilbur F. Dunne, about 30, who had been on parole from the state penitentiary less than a year. Another parolee, Alex Seibel, about 32, gave up when the shooting started.

Klundt said sheriff's officers and police, following a tip from an undisclosed source, had set up the ambush for eight consecutive nights before Dunne and Seibel staged their robbery of the Totem Out Grocery in this little town three miles from Walla Walla.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hutson, the proprietors, said the two men walked into the store about 8 p.m. carrying pistols and told them: "Don't say a word or we'll kill you." Seibel then picked up the cash register and followed Dunne out of the store.

Ordering the pair to "freeze," the officers swarmed from their hiding places. Seibel dropped the cash register and surrendered. Dunne began shooting, several of his bullets striking the lawmen's cars.

Deputy Sheriff Bert Kinman triggered his shotgun and was sure "I hit him once. He started to run. I must have shot again. But I don't remember."

MP DEFIES LIQUOR LAWS; HOTEL RAIDED

CAMPBELLTON, N.B. (CP) — RCMP Tuesday night raided the cocktail lounge of the Chateau Restigouche Hotel and seized a quantity of liquor. The raid came in the wake of recent statements by J. C. Van Horne, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Restigouche-Madawaska, that the hotel would sell liquor until charges were laid by the RCMP.

Mr. Van Horne, president of the company which owns the hotel, said he was anxious to have a test case before the courts so he could expose what he described as the "hypocrisy" of the New Brunswick Liquor Control Act.

Railwaymen Rewarded For Heroics

KAMLOOPS — Four members of a Canadian National Railways track welding crew, who saved three children from drowning in the North Thompson River, 33 miles northeast of here, have been awarded framed certificates by the Royal Canadian Humane Association.

Three of the men, all Manitobans — Harry Wasuta, Transcona; Don Treloar, Rivers; and Peter Mueller, Winnipeg — received their awards in Winnipeg from J. R. McMillan, vice-president of the CNR's western region, who made the presentations on behalf of the humane association.

The fourth member of the crew, Edward Lorch, was to receive his certificate later this week in his home town of Portage la Prairie, Man.

The incident which led to the awards occurred in July, 1958, after three children, Charles, Gerry and Shirley White, aged six, five and 10 years, slipped into the river near their home at Louis Creek. They were swept downstream for a considerable distance before the CNR welding crew spotted them and pulled them out. Under the direction of Lorch, a proficient first-aid, artificial respiration was immediately applied and the victims were revived.

Education Cost Problem Tackled In UBCM Motion

(From Times News Services)

KELOWNA—Delegates will wade through a total of 125 resolutions at the 56th annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, which opens here today.

At the top of the agenda will be the ever increasing cost of education which has been termed by Courtenay as a situation "that is rapidly approaching a state of emergency."

Criticism of the provincial government's failure to appreciate the critical financial situation into which municipalities are drifting is contained in a resolution from Langley township.

Mission and Vernon both request the provincial government to bear half of municipal costs of winter works programs which qualify for a 50 per cent federal payroll grant. The Okanagan Valley Municipal Association has already gone on record as favoring the same proposals.

Delta asks for provincially-operated electricity and gas distribution under the B.C. Power Commission.

DRINKING SPOON

PENTICTON—A Keremeos Indian charged with the murder of his foster mother, July 25, spent the day before her death in intermittent drinking with his foster parents, the dead woman's husband told a court hearing here.

Eneas Nehumchin was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Gilbert-Louie, 24, charged with the murder of Mary Nehumchin, about 60, also known as Mrs. Mary Jack.

"I would say he was half drunk," he said of Louie. Earlier in the hearing Frank Richter, MLA for Sitimkaheen, and Dr. Douglas Yates both testified that Louie wore markings on his face that looked like war paint following the death of Mrs. Jack.

DEPORTATION FACED

VANCOUVER—A man serving a three-year jail sentence for manslaughter will soon be released from the British Columbia penitentiary and deported to West Germany.

Konstantin Dumitru, 37, was acquitted of the murder of Vancouver bartender Robert White. He was sentenced on the reduced manslaughter charge June 4.

RAT RACE FOR JOB

VANCOUVER—Interviewing of university students for jobs has developed into a rat race, says a Toronto accountant.

W. J. Ayers told the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants' convention that the interviewing of students is unprofessional.

LOGGER ACQUITTED

VANCOUVER—Logger Ernest James Keen, 48, was found not guilty Tuesday of the murder of Frank Wilson, 28.

An Assize Court jury took only about 30 minutes to acquit Keen after a 4½-hour trial, one of the shortest on record here. Keen was accused of murder in the stabbing of Wilson at a cabin on remote Redonda Island April 17.

ONE LLAMA WORTH 10 AOUADADS

NEW YORK (AP)—An aoudad is to a llama, apparently, what a motor scooter is to a Cadillac.

The city, finding itself with a surplus of both in its zoos—aoudads and llamas, not motor scooters and Cadillacs—sold four aoudads and one llama to a downtown animal dealer. An aoudad is a wild African sheep, the llama a camel-like South American import.

The aoudads brought $22.50 apiece. The llama went for $225—10 times as much.

Quebec Labor Federation May Break 'Catholic' Tie

QUEBEC (CP)—A long-smouldering dispute over the secularization of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor broke out into the open again Tuesday night.

Gerard Picard, former president of the CCCL and still one of its influential men, declared himself in favor of dropping the "Catholic" from the union's name and divorcing the union from church social doctrine.

He said unions must adapt to changing conditions.

He spoke as a member of a steering committee considering a resolution at the CCCL's annual convention here that the CCCL affiliate with the Canadian Labor Congress and become non-sectarian.

The resolution, periodically brought up and regularly rejected, has not yet been voted on by this convention.

ATTACKED BY PRIESTS

Mr. Picard, who was attacked in a recent pamphlet by former chaplains of the CCCL, said he had been converted to secularization.

A committee said the ex-chaplains' charges that "sinister machinations" were behind the move to lead the CCCL into the CLC.

The former chaplains said certain elements within the CCCL were striving to secularize the organization by undermining its religious meaning.

Mr. Picard said that since 1939 when the practice of labor union certification was legally adopted, the church has not been a factor in Quebec's labor relations.

EXCEEDED JURISDICTION

Speaking of the brief drafted by the five former chaplains, he said:

"I do not judge the document too severely. At the time when those priests were part of the movement it was the practice of chaplains to exceed their jurisdiction."

"But in 1959 the situation is no longer the same. Everything has changed, economy, legal context, worker-management relations, and even inter-relations of workers groups within the unions."

"The chaplains have come from another age to bring a judgment on a movement they no longer know."

SCIENTIST 'BELIEVES'

Squid on Meat Hook Way to Catch Caddy

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UPI)—Want to catch a real live sea serpent? Try a meat hook baited with squid.

That's the belief of Dr. Torben Wolff, curator of the zoological museum at University of Copenhagen, who not only thinks sea serpents exist outside of old sailor's tales, but also believes he knows where one can be found.

The first sea serpent, Wolff believes, may well be caught off the coast of Peru since that area abounds in unusual sea life. He estimates that the first catch may be from 60 to 180 feet long and will be taken with a large hook baited with squid.

The biologist added that serpent hunters shouldn't dip too deep with their baited hook. Their quarry should be quite near the surface since large creatures require large amounts of food which would be unavailable in extremely deep waters.

SIX-FOOT EEL

Wolff backed his sea serpent theories at the American Academy of Arts and Sciences meeting here Monday with some impressive evidence.

He reported that a colleague, Dr. Anton Brunn, also of University of Copenhagen, netted a six-foot eel larva west of Capetown, South Africa. He said no one could determine if the South American eel larva had reached full growth. It would not be hard to see, he said, how a 60 to 180 foot monster could evolve from such a large larva.

Sevenoaks Playroom Dedicated

A dedication ceremony was held last weekend to mark the completion of a new playroom for patients at Sevenoaks Children's Centre for emotionally disturbed children.

The playroom was built with Optimist Club funds.

Nick Mueller, Baltimore, president of Optimists International, presided at the ceremony and presented a plaque of the Optimists' Creed to Ken Shore, treatment director.

Among those present were Rev. F. W. Hays, chaplain of the Oak Bay Optimists Club; Mrs. Mueller; W. J. Cathro, president of Victoria Optimists; D. E. Woodworth, executive director of Family and Children's Service, which operates Sevenoaks.

BETTER MEALS BUILD BETTER FAMILIES

Victoria Daily Times

EATON'S Mainly About Food

Much drum-beating by various highly-paid publicity experts has dinned into our brain the fact that "Better Meals Build Better Families." This truth we hold to be self-evident—the only question is—how produce the better meals? Seeking an answer, we found ourselves (how did you guess?) in EATON'S Foodateria, running an unpractised eye over the groaning shelves.

Now, we might as well admit right away that if you're a straight meat-and-two-veg and no-nonsense type, then there are hundreds of stores in Victoria which can supply everything you need. All we'd like to point out is that variety is the spice of meals as well as of life, and Eaton's is the Store with More when it comes to foods, too. Take humble, necessary soup, for example. When you wheel your cart down the soup aisle at Eaton's, you can choose from not the usual three or four brands of soup, but from thirteen different brands, all in a wide selection of flavours. A meal that starts off with a plateful of Lusky's Turtle Soup is going to taste like a Lord Mayor's Banquet even if it isn't being served in London's Guildhall—and if you don't want to go quite so far from home, there's always Habitant pea soup with the authentic Canadian flavour, or Snow's clam chowder from New England.

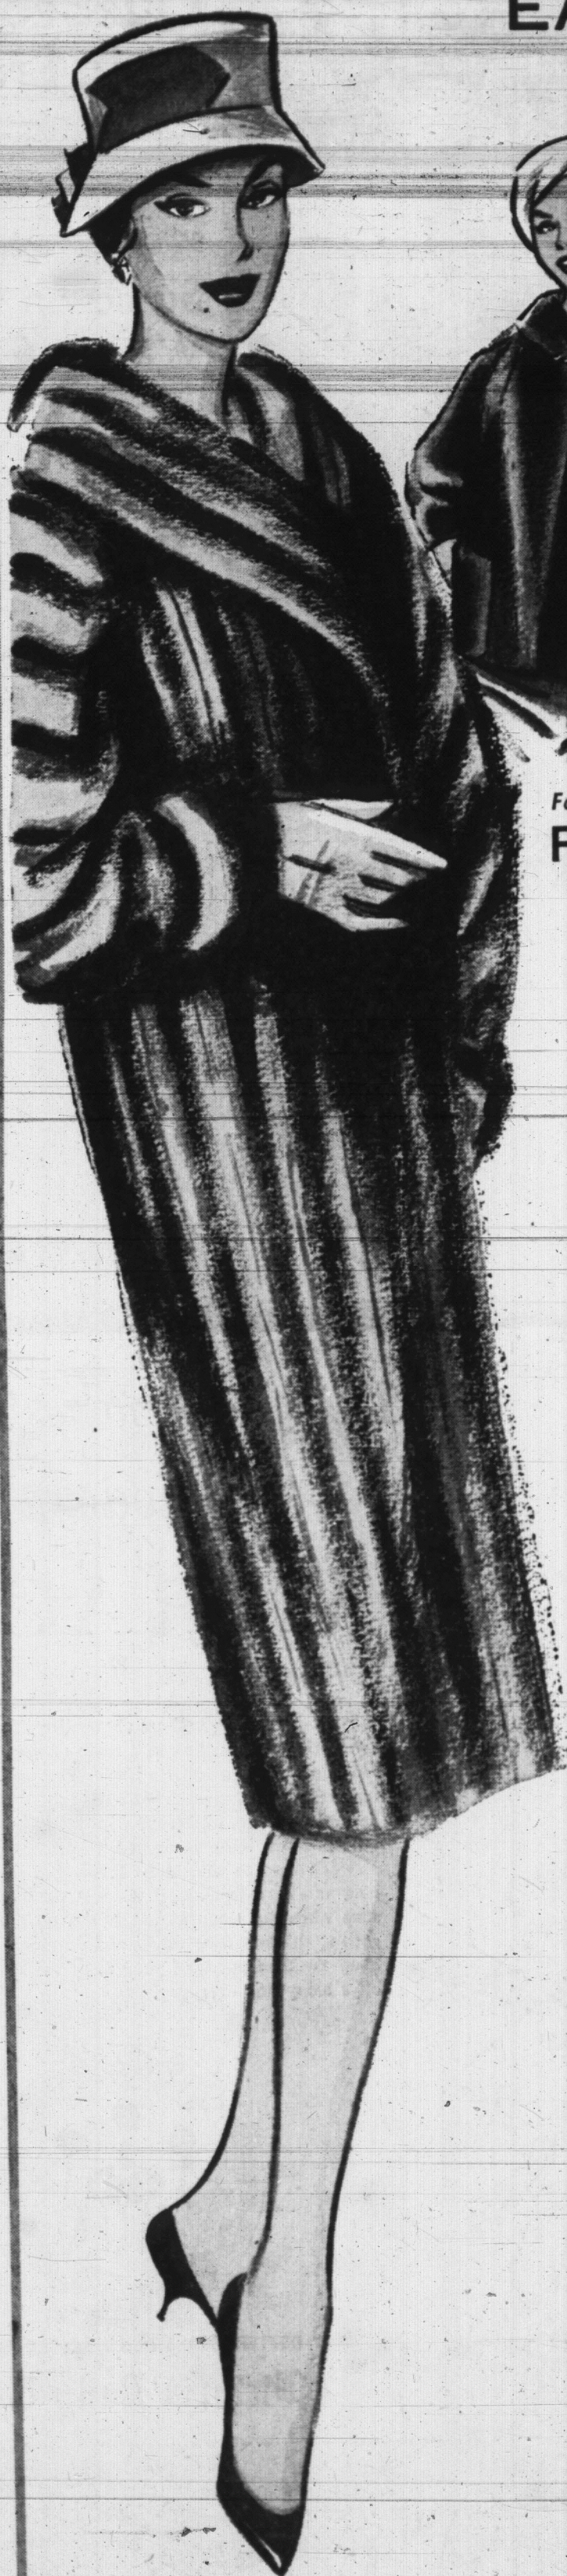

Making the same point at the other end of the meal, for those who like molasses in one form or another, Eaton's offers not a measly three or four brands, but nine different brands of molasses in cooking or table grades. We imagine that you'll find one to suit even the pickiest of palates, but if all nine fail, you can still fall back on Fowler's West India green treacle, which isn't green at all, but brown, just like our "green" lawn in summer, and quite delicious no matter what its colour.

Bear in mind that this is the choice you get in the Foodateria—the Hostess Shop on the Main Floor has exotic specialties, but these are the things you find on the ordinary shelves at the Store with More. Consider, now, the virtues of tea. We didn't count the varieties of tea you can choose from—life's too short—but our eye was taken by a package of Twinings. Messieurs Twining have been blending tea at the very same premises since 1706, they proudly declare, yet we observed that they're not by any means reactionary in their thinking. Gad, sir, they package their tea in tea bags as well as the familiar tins!

Ridgway's, also represented on Eaton's shelves, have only been in the tea business a mere 100 years, but one sip of their Earl Grey blend tells you that they've learned a few things in that time. Maybe you'd prefer one of Eaton's own blends (we like the Orange Pekoe), or perhaps Mazawattee, very well known in Britain, or a direct Ceylonese import like Bee Brand, or one of fourteen local blends, or a China tea or—perish the thought—it could be that you don't like any of the blends on the market. Are we defeated? No—for the answer is to blend your own with the aid of charming canisters of Darjeeling, Bud Leaf, Oolong, Young Hyson and Gunpowder teas. How about your own personal blend—just how exclusive can one get?—served with toast fingers spread with Patum Peperium, the "Gentleman's Relish" followed by Devonshire splits with Young's quick-frozen clotted cream and Chiver's strawberry jam? A plateful of Fort's thin ginger biscuits on the side, and your reputation's made!

Well, that was a better meal, and we're still drooling over the thought of it, but maybe it's not the kind to build better families. If we know anything about the injustice of life, the family will never get a chance at it! So we'd better consider something more substantial. How about curry? You can't make good curry without good curry powder, and by now you should be able to guess who's got the big choice in curry powder! Side by side with familiar Canadian brands you'll find the product of P. Vencataghellum, who has been winning prizes for it since 1873, and of M. M. Poonjiaji, whose suggested recipe calls for ghee and coconut milk. Yes, Eaton's has coconuts, but we must hang our head in shame and confess to an absence of ghee. Still, clarified butter will do! A more familiar label is Crosse & Blackwell, whose British operation supplies a "Currie" powder which "consists entirely of ground spices without added cereal, salt or diluent"—which, being translated, means "Hold on to your hat, boy, this stuff's hot."

Good grief! Here we are at the end of the page and we've hardly started on the subject! We'd like to tell you about Eaton's Dutch food section, to mention the rarer kinds of biscuit like Romary's, to dissert upon the delights of dieting with foods from the Diet Shop (they have just about everything you crave, with all the calories taken out!), to comment on cheese and prattle of pickled pork in beer sauce, but space decrees 'tis not to be. Mr. K to Present World Arms Plan At UN Assembly

(From Times News Services)

WASHINGTON—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, warning that a third world war would be "sheer madness," announced today that he is ready to present new Russian proposals for worldwide disarmament.

He said he will submit the Soviet plan to the United Nations in New York Friday. He gave no advance details, but indicated the proposals will be sweeping.

"The best, the most reliable way to make war impossible would be to place all states, without exception, in conditions where they would have no means of conducting war," he said in a nationally televised speech before the National Press Club.

Khrushchev warned that modern atomic weapons, missiles and space vehicles have made the U.S.-Soviet arms race extremely dangerous to both countries and to all mankind. Unless America and Russia find a way to put their swiftly-advancing technologies in the service of peace, he said, "the earth will be covered with ashes and graves."

Khrushchev's address before an overflow luncheon audience of 480 at the National Press Club was his first full-scale speech since arriving in this country yesterday. It was followed by a no-holds-barred question and answer session.

"The Soviet people have long made their choice for peace," he said.

"We are convinced that the American people also are for peace," he said.

A LIBERAL WIN in the next provincial election is their cup of tea, but national Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson, right, told provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault he probably won't come to B.C. to help him personally. "The federal party will help materially," however, he added. Mr. Perrault said the provincial party will run a candidate in every riding. The pair posed at Empress during short visit.

100 Buried In Collapse Of Building

BARLETTA, Italy (AP)—A five-story apartment building collapsed with lightning speed in this port city today, trapping an estimated 100 persons.

The number of dead was not known.

Tonight, as thousands of workers prepared to dig throughout the night, police said the number of crushed bodies removed from the debris totalled 18.

Another 15 persons were carried to hospital, some in grave condition.

Police said that probably another 88 persons were still in the rubble of cement, bricks, stone and twisted steel that until early this morning was home to some 24 families.

HOPE TO SAVE SOME

Thousands of infantry troops, police, firemen, Red Cross workers and volunteers prepared to work throughout the night in hopes that some of those trapped in the debris might be saved. Five bulldozers also were being used in the grim task.

Meanwhile, another 2,000 policemen and other officials of this city of 50,000 people 30 miles north of the big city of Bari formed cordons to hold back relatives of the victims. Many women wept. Others prayed.

The tragedy struck swiftly. The building custodian's wife, among the first to be removed and taken to hospital, said "it sounded like a bomb."

Others near the scene at the time said at first they thought an earthquake had struck the city.

BUSH OUT IN PANIC

Still others, feeling the shock and hearing the rumble, thought that a tanker had exploded in the port. Thousands rushed out of their homes in panic.

The building originally was a one-story garage. Four other stories had been erected upon it and only recently families had moved into the apartments.

Technicians expressed the belief that the collapse resulted because the building foundations could not sustain the weight of the new floors.

Animal-Laden Rocket Explodes on Takeoff

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—A Jupiter missile carrying 14 pregnant mice and two frogs exploded today 10 seconds after launching.

The shot was to have been a test of the effects of space flight on the tiny animals and several other biological samples packed in the nose cone.

The would-be space travelers met a fiery death when the Jupiter blew apart about 1,000 feet in the air.

Pieces of the vehicle fell back on the launching area. No person in the area was hurt.

The 60-foot rocket rose from its pad at 7:45 a.m. EDT. It veered sharply off course almost immediately. Suddenly it erupted in a huge ball of fire and smoke as it was ripped by tons of exploding fuel.

The defence department announced later that the range safety officer deliberately destroyed the big missile when his instruments detected a malfunction. He pressed a button that ignited an explosive package built into the missile for that purpose.

The Jupiter was to have carried its flying menagerie some 300 miles into space and 1,500 miles down the Atlantic missile range. Ships and planes waited near the West Indies island of Antigua hoping to recover the nose cone and its cargo.

The mice and frogs were packed into the huge cone with one of the strangest groups of living things ever assembled. Also aboard were onions and mustard seeds, fruit fly larvae, bread mould, human blood and skin, algae cells, sea urchin eggs and radiation emulsion packs.

SPACE FLIGHT DATA

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the test of space flight on various biological systems would help prepare the way for manned space journeys.

The cone contained more than a day's supply of oxygen, food and water for the tiny space travellers.

There was no instruments attached to the animals to send back information on their condition during flight.

Last May, the United States sent two female monkeys named Able and Baker aloft in another Jupiter and recovered them successfully.

During July, the Russians safely parachuted two animal loads, totalling four dogs and a rabbit back from undisclosed altitudes.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, we beseech Thee to draw near to all those who are downcast and despondent. There are many who are lonely and discouraged, and know not which way to go. Make Thyself known to them that they may feel that they are not alone. Give them light that they may see their way ahead. Give them that peace that comes from resting in Thee. May they accept the invitation of Him who said, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest"; in His blessed name. Amen.

No Change in Berlin Policy

The speech disclosed no change in the Soviet attitude on Germany or Berlin.

He called again for recognition of two separate Germanies—West Germany and the Communist puppet regime in the east.

And he argued again for the Soviet proposal, already rejected by the Allies, to make West Berlin—at present under Allied occupation—a defenceless "free city" encircled by Communist East Germany.

Khrushchev gave no details of his new disarmament proposal, but he said he hopes it will "play an important part in the solution of this, the most burning issue of our time."

Khrushchev's speech was regarded by reporters who have covered him for years in Moscow and Europe as one of the most conciliatory in tone that he has ever made. He acknowledged it would be "naïve" for either side to expect all differences to be ironed out overnight.

"Too much misunderstanding and prejudice born of the cold war have accumulated for this," Khrushchev said. "But the Soviet government believes that if we all work hard together, the storm clouds in the relations between our countries can well be dispersed."

'The Barometer Seems Fine'

Khrushchev spoke of a "feeling of friendship" for the United States.

Referring to President Eisenhower, who will return Khrushchev's visit later this fall, he said Eisenhower's "outstanding qualities are highly esteemed in the Soviet Union."

Khrushchev said it would be premature to try to predict the results of his visit here, remarking that even the weather man has difficulty forecasting a day in advance.

But, he added, judging by his one day here which included a two-hour conversation with Eisenhower, the "barometer seems fine."

The visiting Soviet leader launched into weightier matters after opening his address with a bit of pleasantries.

He said he would like to remain here half a year so he could answer all questions put to him.

But, he said, "I have to return to Moscow to receive your esteemed president in our own country."

"Despite the strong propaganda against the Soviet Union and the Communist party and me as its leader, the American public is giving me a good, warm reception." The Soviet Premier said in reply to a question as to what had impressed him most here. "This shows the public realizes the need for friendship with the Soviet Union."

"One might not respect our political views, but since we are living on one planet we must try to live together."

"We are not the kind of people we have been pictured. We don't gobble up babies. After all, we eat the same food you do—a little meat, a little potatoes."

Mr. Khrushchev, standing calmly in the midst of reporters, answered questions quickly and with apparent ease.

One questioner recalled that Vice-President Nixon has said that Khrushchev suffered from some misconceptions about the United States.

In view of that, the Russian leader was asked if he has yet changed any of his opinions about America.

"No," he replied. "Mr. Nixon often has a wrong conception of our people and of myself. He has imagined, he has in his mind, an image of Soviet political leaders which is not true."

Asked if he had any pre-conception of the U.S., Khrushchev said:

"I had some picture. What kind of a chairman of the Council of Ministers would I be if I had no conception of the United States?"

Has he been surprised by anything he has seen in the United States so far?

"I can't say that I have been surprised by anything."

New Deal for Algiers

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle said tonight that as soon as peace is restored in Algeria, Algerians will be able to use their vote "still more freely and still more widely."

PEARSON URGES TALKS

'Pool Efforts In Space Race'

By PETE LOUDON

The cause of peace will be well served if President Eisenhower can talk Soviet Premier Khrushchev into pooling scientific activities in outer space, veteran Canadian statesman Lester Pearson said here today.

National Liberal party leader, Nobel Peace Prize winner and former Secretary of State for External Affairs, Mr. Pearson was interviewed at the Empress Hotel. He is visiting here on party matters with provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault for the day.

He said the current visit of the Soviet Premier in the U.S. should be helpful, but "we'd better keep our fingers crossed."

Mr. Pearson hopes the Soviet leader will be impressed with the industrial might of the U.S. but to understand it is a defensive might and the U.S. not an aggressive power.

Tension Increased by Moon Race

"But suppose he gets the wrong impression from the public?"

He referred to restrained welcomes and examples of antagonism reported in some sections Tuesday.

Mr. Pearson hoped the Russian visitor will understand the U.S. does not want war.

Mr. Pearson would like to see the Washington meeting attempt to end present international competition in the field of technological advancement.

Events such as the race to the moon add to the tension between the world's two most powerful nations. This problem could be overcome by establishment of a joint scientific commission, Mr. Pearson thought.

The United Nations has been trying for four years to internationalize activities in outer space. So far the Russians won't take part in it.

"Perhaps Eisenhower can talk him into taking part in this activity," said Mr. Pearson.

He said he met Khrushchev once five years ago near Yalta while visiting the Soviet Union. "He is tough, intelligent, flexible, he will listen as well as talk."

"He is a dedicated Communist, and convinced they have the way of the future. He is obviously a man of great capacities."

"He is jovial and a wonderful host, an extrovert, he loves parties."

Mr. Pearson added at some of them Premier Khrushchev is "a bit of a buffoon."

He considered a moment before adding that he believed Khrushchev "has as much power as Stalin had."

'TIGHTEST MONEY EVER BUT WE'VE NO POLICY'

By HAL MALONE

Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson today clashed sharply with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming on whether or not Canada has a tight-money policy.

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fleming have repeatedly stated Canada has no tight-money policy.

Mr. Pearson told a press conference in the Empress Hotel: "We have the tightest money in history but we have no policy."

He said the sale of treasury bills "show that conclusively."

"It's a bad situation," said Mr. Pearson, "that interest rates are higher than ever before when Canada is emerging from a recession—and we are—let alone to have this situation during a boom in our economy."

Government confusion on the matter is compounded, said Mr. Pearson, when "Mr. Diefenbaker says we don't have tight money, then says that if we do have tight money it isn't his government's fault and finally says the government isn't to blame for taking any measures through the Bank of Canada which, he says, it doesn't control."

"Everyone knows that the Bank of Canada is responsible, to the minister of finance."

"Purely, it's a case where the government won't take responsibility."

Man Badly Hurt As Cars Collide

A 72-year-old Victoria motorist today was badly injured in a traffic accident at the corner of Richardson and Stannard Avenue, in Ross Bay district.

Arthur P. Livingstone-Learmonth, retired, 1535 Richardson Street, was taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering from a punctured lung, fractured ribs and severe shock.

His condition is serious.

City traffic police said Mr. Livingstone-Learmonth's 1959 car was in collision with a car driven by Gordon Hallam, 1265 Downham Place, in the centre of the Richardson and Stannard intersection. Mr. Hallam escaped injuries.

The accident took place at 9:23 a.m.

The injured man's car was sent spinning across Richardson, on to a lot at 464 Stannard. The door of the driver's seat was caved in by the impact, crushing the elderly man.

Apparently the collision took place when Mr. Livingstone-Learmonth, driving west on Richardson, made a left-hand turn to go down Stannard. Mr. Hallam's car came up from behind.

Jokes which won't live long enough to enter the Old Jokes Home.

So there was this fellow, and he was out fishing with this other fellow, and they were fishing near Brochle Ledge.

And pretty soon this first fellow felt a tug on the end of his line, and he reeled in his line, and what do you know? There was a great big salmon-type fish on the end of his line.

So he pulled the fish into the boat and conked it on the head with a blunt instrument and then he reached over and started the motor in the boat.

But this other fellow (remember him?) didn't like the idea of quitting fishing and he said so, asking why they had to stop now?

So this first fellow, the one who landed the fish, said it was easy to explain.

"When I've caught a coho," he said, "I've caught a coho."

Har de har har.

So there was another fellow (don't tell me you're still with me) who went all around and about the town asking where he could find azuki.

Until finally somebody was foolish enough to ask "What is azuki?"

And the fellow chortled: "It's a key to open a zoo."

Har de har har.

And then there was this OTHER fellow who attended a social evening but unfortunately he had one over the dozen before he arrived and was very obnoxious and so obnoxious that he quite spoiled the whole tenor of the social evening.

So the next day a friend of this OTHER fellow was berating him for spoiling the evening, which, after all, had been organized simply for the exchange of light conversation.

And this friend demanded to know, what did this OTHER fellow have to say for himself?

"What CAN I say," came the reply, "after I say I'm soiree?"

'THEY GET THIS HELP BECAUSE THE PUBLIC CARES ABOUT THEM'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

One out of every six persons in Greater Victoria will receive help during the coming year because of the Community Chest, Eric Mallett, chairman of the 1959 campaign, said today.

Broadly speaking, they will get this help because the public cares about them," Mr. Mallett told a luncheon meeting of Victoria Life Underwriters in the Pacific Club.

"And if the public cares sufficiently we will have no difficulty reaching our target of $325,000 in this year's campaign."

Mr. Mallett said he was confident the target would be reached.

He gave a summary of how the 22 welfare agencies served by the Community Chest operate each day throughout the year.

"Today in Victoria there are 270 children in care—orphans, deserted children and neglected wards."

"Today in Victoria members of the Victorian Order of Nurses (VON) will make 100 calls in this area. The Silver Threads' volunteers will make four visits to old people and five others will be interviewed."

"Fourteen persons will be treated today by physiotherapists at the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society's clinic on Collinson Street."

"At the Canadian National Institute for the Blind on Blanshard Street, blind men and women are being taught to fashion baskets, and a blind wife is learning how to pour tea."

Mr. Mallett said the Family and Children's Service, 1951 Cook, gets the largest proportion of the Community Chest dollar—about 25 cents—and it is looking after 447 children at the present time.

NANAIMO WARMEST

'Survival' Exercise On Island Next Week

Canadian Army troops will take part in a "National Survival" exercise on Vancouver Island starting next Tuesday.

The exercise will provide training for the army's recently-announced role in the national survival concept which succeeded civil defence.

Members of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will be engaged in the exercise, along with the 3rd Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack.

The exercise is based on the possibility of nuclear attack, and will train troops in rescue operations, radiation monitoring, and re-entry into a bombed area.

Initial stages call for the Victoria-based unit to operate under wireless direction from the operations staff of B.C. area headquarters at Vancouver. The Chilliwack "Sappers" will move to the Island by army transport, and make contact with the Princess Pats near Nanaimo.

INTO CITY

Later stages will require the troops to move into Victoria as a mobile support group under command of Lt.-Col. James Allen, CO of the PCLC. They will carry out drill under the assumption Victoria was the target for a nuclear explosion.

Director of the exercise will be Brigadier J. W. Bishop, B.C. area commander, assisted by Col. Roy Smillie, area medical officer.

Bulging College Stages Assembly Thursday Morning

Official opening of another college year Thursday will illustrate graphically the growth of Victoria College.

Hundreds of students will stand in the college auditorium and hall outside as more than 1,000—a new record—are expected to turn out for the 10 a.m. assembly. There are only 300 seats in the auditorium.

Formal welcomes will be extended to the students by Judge J. B. Clearihue, president of the college council, principal Dr. H. H. Hickman, and student council president Tony Robertson.

Students begin regular classes Monday at 8:30 a.m. when the fall term opens. Regular registration ends Thursday afternoon but some late registrations are expected Monday.

Canadian Destroyer Obsolete?

Pearson Fears Atomic Subs

Canada's proud new line of destroyer-escorts may be obsolete in the face of the new atomic submarine, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson said today.

He told a press conference at Empress Hotel "Canada's modern destroyer escorts against conventional snorkel type subs may still be an effective weapon, but what about the new atomic submarine? We may have to change the whole basis of defence."

He felt Canada should take a "hard look" at its $1.3 billion defence spending "in terms of new capability of attack."

Although the government is going ahead with Bomarc missile plans "there is still a great controversy in the U.S." concerning the value of such armament. They are of no importance against missiles and now there is doubt they would prove an effective defense against the super bombers of the Soviet, he said.

On political matters, Mr. Pearson had praise for the new Liberal blueprint put forward at the last provincial convention of the party at Vancouver. He said however, the B.C. Liberal formula for industrial peace—profit-sharing by industry—"is purely a provincial proposal" at this time.

(B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perreault, who accompanied Mr. Pearson here today, has stated his party, in power, would create benefits for industry which would endorse co-ownership as a means of ending labor-management disputes and resulting wage and price spirals.)

Mr. Pearson said the proposal "seems to have a good deal of merit. It is something we ought to be looking at in Ottawa, when we as a federal party have to put forward proposals of our own."

WASTEFUL

"Strikes are becoming an increasingly wasteful procedure. Anything we do federally in this matter will not weaken or prejudice the right of collective bargaining by labor, through unions of their own choice."

Mr. Pearson also made it clear that the provincial Liberal policy on power development was a step ahead of federal policy.

"That's not a federal Liberal proposal," he said of the B.C. party resolution that all future power development in B.C. should be by a public agency.

But he added, public ownership of power in the east "has been pretty efficient. Few people in Ontario would like to go back to private power."

He said he believed in the broad principle of public ownership in its application to public utilities, but "would want to consider each application in the light of all surrounding conditions."

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Dr. Cornelius H. Felix, 711 Pemberton Road, careless driving, $40.

Robert James Fisher, HMCS Naden, no driver's licence, $25.

Robert George O'Hara, 1290 Holloway, allowing a minor to drive without a licence, $15.

HERBERT ANSCOMB ... comeback bid?

TORIES BUSY

Former Leader Heads List Of 'Possibles'

By PETE LOUDON
Times Political Reporter

Executive of the Victoria Progressive Conservative Association is expected to meet before the end of the month to consider the names of three potential candidates to represent the party in the next provincial election.

According to several authorities within the organization, the name of Herbert Anscomb, former minister of finance in the Coalition government, will be one of three put forward.

CHARMAN REFUSED

There was little uniformity among guesses who the other two candidates might be. It was learned Eric Charman, Victoria investment counsellor, had been asked and had refused to consider the job at this time.

There is a demand within certain sections of the party for a nominating convention as soon as possible, and before the annual meeting of the provincial party at Harrison Hot Springs Oct. 30 and 31.

OUT OF TOWN

The naming of Mr. Anscomb as a candidate has been rumored for many months. He is out of town and could not be reached for comment, but friends say although he has made no direct statement, he does not deny the possibility. They say his recent acceptance of a post on a federal government railway committee indicates his willingness to come out of political retirement.

Mr. Anscomb, 67, is a former reeve of Oak Bay, and a former mayor of Victoria. First elected to the legislature in 1933, he served as minister of public works, minister of railways, and minister of municipal affairs before becoming minister of finance in 1946, a post he held for six years.

FINE ORATOR

He is recalled as one of the finest orators in recent B.C. legislative history.

Mr. Anscomb is undoubtedly the most experienced man available for the task of leading the Conservatives of this area. There is speculation, if he were elected, he would challenge Deane Finlayson for leadership of the party in B.C.

Economic Blow To North Pender

Loss was estimated at $150,000 in an overnight fire that destroyed the National Packing Co. Ltd. herring reduction plant at Shingle Bay, on North Pender Island.

It broke out between midnight and 6 a.m., and smoke and flames billowed in clouds into the mist hanging over the island and adjacent waters. Cause was not known.

The blaze dealt a severe blow to the economic life of the island, since it was considered a reliable source of income for residents during the fishing season. It employed up to 12 persons per shift, and at the height of the season operated three shifts per day.

The alarm was given by D. Murphy, watchman, who lives 400 yards from the site, and who awoke this morning to find a dense pall of smoke over the whole area.

FROM SALT SPRING

He called the North Pender Island volunteer fire department, and Forest Service crews came from Salt Spring Island by boat with hose and pumps.

Firefighters attempted only to contain the blaze in the huge frame building, and to prevent its spread to other buildings and brush near by.

At 11 a.m. today it was reported under control.

Owner of the plant was John C. Jackson Ltd. of Vancouver.

This was the second fire to occur at this particular spot. A herring reduction plant operated there many years ago, but shortly after it was sold by G. D. Humphreys of Salt Spring Island, in 1947, it burned.

It was rebuilt completely in 1947 by new owners, and different machinery was installed. The Jackson interests acquired the plant in December, 1957.

LANDMARK

The vast building, half of which extended over the water, was a landmark on the western shore of North Pender Island, and was directly across Swanson Channel from Beaver Point on Salt Spring Island.

Company officials said the loss of the plant and machinery was covered by insurance. It had last worked in May of this year, when herring were running in Gulf Islands waters, then was closed as herring moved north. It was scheduled to open again with the start of herring fishing in October.

The plant produced herring meal used in the manufacture of feed for cattle, poultry, swine and other livestock, and fish oil used for foodstuffs, soap and other products.

300 Doctors Coming Here For Convention

Three hundred B.C. doctors and their wives are coming to Victoria for the annual meeting of the B.C. Medical Association in the Empress Hotel Oct. 14-17.

"We expect one of the largest registrations in our 60-year history," Dr. J. F. Tysoe, president, said today.

The program of events will be under direction of a committee of Victoria doctors chaired by Dr. W. A. Falk.

Dr. Kirk Lyon, Canadian deputy to the president of the Canadian Medical Association this year, will give the major address at a luncheon meeting Oct. 15.

DAYLIGHT TIME ENDS NEXT WEEK

Both sunrise and sunset will come a full hour earlier a week next Saturday when daylight saving time comes to an end.

Clocks will be turned back one hour, everyone will get an extra hour of sleep, and the after-work golf game will be put into cold storage until next year with sunset coming at 6:03 p.m.

Construction Men Praise Labor Act

The Canadian Construction Association today lauded the provincial government for its "leadership and sense of responsibility" in passing labor legislation making trade unions legal entities.

In a brief to the government, the CCA said this measure is a step in bringing about a greater degree of equity in relationships between labor union leaders and management.

The CCA said it has made representations to most provincial governments urging that "out-moded and one-sided provisions in labor legislation" be amended to serve "modern industrial needs."

Specifically, the CCA wants clarification on the illegality of picketing and strikes in various forms, prohibition of the locked shop, settlement of jurisdictional disputes by a Canadian board rather than one in Washington, D.C., prohibition of work stoppages in essential public services and utilities and the requirement that trade unions obtain civil status as legal entities "just like any other large businesses."

In another matter, the group said it was "most concerned" over the "tendency of some government bodies, including those at the provincial level, to increase their construction facilities and personnel to the point where they are infringing on the operations of contractors already equipped to handle the work."

"We feel that in the vast majority of cases such a procedure is not in the public interest since when costs are placed on a comparable basis, the forces of competition between contractors will be to the taxpayers' benefit both from the standpoint of cost and efficiency."

ASK The TIMES

Q. What is the diameter of the present one-cent Canadian coin? J.M.

A. It is .75 on an inch. This is for the common "small" coin. The larger one-cent pieces are exactly one inch across.

Q. To settle a discussion will you tell us how to pronounce Mr. Khrushchev's name. Some announcers say "ov" on the end, others "ev." E.H.L.

A. Proper pronunciation is Kru-sheff. The ending "ov" and "ev" is pronounced "eff" in Russian and Ukrainian, and by many other persons of central and eastern Europe. Kru-sheff is, almost, the proper way to say it, but like all words from other languages there is no reason why it can't be adapted to make it easier for the English tongue. The average persons speaking English would choke on the proper pronunciation of the "Khr" portion of the name, for example.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

'Pool Efforts
In Space Race'

By PETE LOUDON

The cause of peace will be well served if President Eisenhower can talk Soviet Premier Khrushchev into pooling scientific activities in outer space, veteran Canadian statesman Lester Pearson said here today.

National Liberal party leader, Nobel Peace Prize winner and former Secretary of State for External Affairs, Mr. Pearson was interviewed at the Empress Hotel. He is visiting here on party matters with provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault for the day.

He said the current visit of the Soviet Premier in the U.S. should be helpful, but "we'd better keep our fingers crossed."

Mr. Pearson hopes the Soviet leader will be impressed with the industrial might of the U.S. but to understand it is a defensive might and the U.S. not an aggressive power.

Tension Increased by Moon Race

"But suppose he gets the wrong impression from the public?"

He referred to restrained welcomes and examples of antagonism reported in some sections Tuesday.

Mr. Pearson hoped the Russian visitor will understand the U.S. does not want war.

Mr. Pearson would like to see the Washington meeting attempt to end present international competition in the field of technological advancement.

Events such as the race to the moon add to the tension between the world's two most powerful nations. This problem could be overcome by establishment of a joint scientific commission, Mr. Pearson thought.

Speech to UN
Will Reveal
Soviet Scheme

(From Times News Services)

WASHINGTON—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, warning that a third world war would be "sheer madness," announced today that he is ready to present new Russian proposals for worldwide disarmament.

He said he will submit the Soviet plan to the United Nations in New York Friday. He gave no advance details, but indicated the proposals will be sweeping.

"The best, the most reliable way to make war impossible would be to place all states, without exception, in conditions where they would have no means of conducting war," he said in a nationally televised speech before the National Press Club.

Khrushchev warned that modern atomic weapons, missiles and space vehicles have made the U.S.-Soviet arms race extremely dangerous to both countries and to all mankind. Unless America and Russia find a way to put their swiftly-advancing technologies in the service of peace, he said, "the earth will be covered with ashes and graves."

Khrushchev's address before an overflow luncheon audience of 480 at the National Press Club was his first full-scale speech since arriving in this country Tuesday. It was followed by a no-holds-barred question and answer session.

"The Soviet people have long made their choice for peace," he said.

"We are convinced that the American people also are for peace," he said.

No Change in Berlin Policy

The speech disclosed no change in the Soviet attitude on Germany or Berlin.

He called again for recognition of two separate Germanies—West Germany and the Communist puppet regime in the east.

And he argued again for the Soviet proposal, already rejected by the Allies, to make West Berlin—at present under Allied occupation—a defenceless "free city" encircled by Communist East Germany.

Khrushchev gave no details of his new disarmament proposal, but he said he hopes it will "play an important part in the solution of this, the most burning issue of our time."

Khrushchev's speech was regarded by reporters who have covered him for years in Moscow and Europe as one of the most conciliatory in tone that he has ever made.

He acknowledged it would be "naïve" for either side to expect all differences to be ironed out overnight.

"Too much misunderstanding and prejudice born of the cold war have accumulated for this," Khrushchev said. "But the Soviet government believes that if we all work hard together, the storm clouds in the relations between our countries can well be dispersed."

'The Barometer Seems Fine'

Khrushchev spoke of a "feeling of friendship" for the United States.

Referring to President Eisenhower, who will return Khrushchev's visit later this fall, he said Eisenhower's "outstanding qualities are highly esteemed in the Soviet Union."

premature to try to predict the results of his visit here, remarking that even the weather man has difficulty forecasting a day in advance.

But, he added, judging by his one day here which included a two-hour conversation with Eisenhower, the "barometer seems fine."

BARLETTA, Italy (AP)—A five-story apartment building collapsed with lightning speed in this port city today, trapping an estimated 100 persons.

The number of dead was not known.

Tonight, as thousands of workers prepared to dig throughout the night, police said the number of crushed bodies removed from the debris totalled 18.

Another 15 persons were carried to hospital, some in grave condition.

Police said that probably another 88 persons were still in the rubble of cement, bricks, stone and twisted steel that until early this morning was home to some 24 families.

HOPE TO SAVE SOME

Thousands of infantry troops, police, firemen, Red Cross workers and volunteers prepared to work throughout the night in hopes that some of those trapped in the debris might be saved. Five bulldozers also were being used in the grim task.

Meanwhile, another 2,000 policemen and other officials of this city of 50,000 people 30 miles north of the big city of Bari formed cordons to hold back relatives of the victims. Many women wept. Others prayed.

The tragedy struck swiftly. The building's custodian's wife, among the first to be removed and taken to hospital, said "it sounded like a bomb."
